Allies Again Pound Jap Armada at New Guinea

Canberra, Australia

March 12 (AP)

OFFICIAL NEWS

Two days of violent air attack, which littered the Japanese-held beachhead of New Guinea with the wreckage of an invasion armada and battered potential Japanese bases, gave directly threatened Australia valuable hours today to muster fighting power for a stand on her own shores.

Japan's first spearhead apparently was blunted by the fierce aerial blows yesterday at hangars and runways of Salamaua and Lae, following up the aerial onslaught the day before which sank, burned or beached seven ships and brought to at least 13 the number of Japanese transports put out of action off New Guinea and New Britain.

There was, however, no word of new action today to indicate the next turn of the fight, nor any further news of a second strong Japanese convoy last reported headed for Port Moresby, capital of New Guinea, 500 miles from the Australian mainland.

WORSE FATE WAITS THEM

One spokesman declared the Japanese would take an even harder pounding as they came farther into effective range of fighters and bombers based in northern Australia.

He said attacks yesterday and the day before when the seven Japanese ships were officially recorded as put out of action were only a beginning. The Australians said two more ships were believed damaged in the Tuesday attacks.

(The Japanese imperial headquarters announcement acknowledged that three of its warships were damaged and six other vessels were sunk or grounded in the Tuesday landing operations at Lae and Salamaua.)

(The Tokyo announcement said a cruiser, two destroyers and three "requisitioned ships"—probably captured vessels taken over by the Japanese navy—were damaged slightly and a military transport and two other "requisitioned" ships were sunk or beached.)

U. S. FLIERS BLAST SHIPS

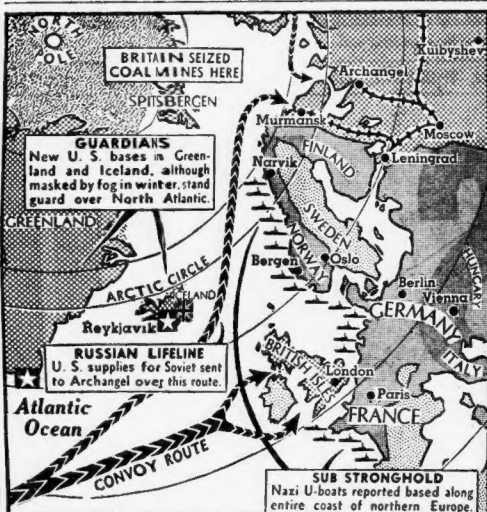

A United States announcement yesterday logged the seven Japanese ships to the credit of American air forces in Australia and military sources in Washington predicted that American action would focus in heavy bomber attacks on Japanese armadas near the approaches to Australia.

The Army said yesterday that eight heavy United States bombers smashed at Japanese ships Tuesday in the New Guinea harbor of Salamaua, dropping 18 tons of bombs, which left two vessels sinking, four burning and another stranded.

The American forces returned intact.

A probable forecast of what the Japanese are building up to as they accumulate men, munitions and ships and prepare advance bases for an attempt to push onto the Australian mainland was given in NORWEGIAN FRONT—Map shows the key position that Norway now holds in the battle of Russia, with shore bases dominating routes from the United States and Britain to the port of Murmansk. As Germany sends warships to north of Norway, evidence points to imminence of Allied drive against the subjugated nation.

ALLIED ATTACK ON NORWAY VIA RUSSIA LOOMS

New York

March 12 (AP)

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT

Cumulative military and political evidence indicates the imminence of highly important operations centering about the area between the desolate North Cape at the top of Norway and the cruel 1000-foot granite cliffs of the Russian Murmansk coast.

Major air and naval operations already are under way, involving German capital ships, British torpedo planes undoubtedly operating from an aircraft carrier, other British warships and United Nations convoys.

These cannot be explained entirely by the routine movement of American and British supplies to Archangel. More than one competent analyst is considering whether the western Allied powers will pound a wedge of well-equipped power into the top of Europe when the midnight sun shines this coming summer.

Free Europe, a review of international affairs published in London, said today that an Allied spring offensive in the west should have a good chance of success, for the forces now concentrated in the British Isles presumably are stronger than those the Germans have disposed from Kirkenes, Norway, to Hendaye, France.

This commentary declared that both military and political reasons commended Norway as a spot where the Allies could strike with overwhelming forces. It added that

PRINZ EUGEN BLASTED AS TIRPITZ FLEES

London

March 12 (INS)

A report that the German cruiser Prinz Eugen was torpedoed and badly damaged by a British submarine was published by the London News Chronicle today.

Meanwhile London believed the German battleship Tirpitz had escaped British torpedo planes and naval craft which attacked and pursued it on Monday and that it might now be ranging the Atlantic.

The News Chronicle said the Prinz Eugen is in Trondheim harbor with a bad hole in its hull. Many bodies of its crew members were said to have been found floating in a flooded compartment after the Prinz Eugen reached Trondheim.

The Prinz Eugen, with the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, escaped from Brest last month in a sudden dash through the Straits of Dover.

The Tirpitz was attacked Monday by British torpedo planes which apparently frustrated an attempted Nazi sea assault on a convoy bound for Russia.

Following the torpedo planes, British warships went after the 35,000-ton Tirpitz, but were unable to catch her.

The Russians were reported today to have hurled 90-odd armored and infantry divisions, perhaps 1,500,000 men into a great offensive on the southern front stretching from Taganrog on the Sea of Azov up to the vicinity of Kharkov in the upper Ukraine.

Simultaneously, they were heavily attacking in the Orel sector, some 250 miles above Kharkov and 200 miles south of Moscow, and about Staraya Russa, the area where the 16th German army is encircled below Leningrad.

In the Orel fighting, the German high command acknowledged that its lines had been penetrated northeast of the city and that Nazi forces were wholly on the defensive.

All this indicated that the Soviet command had embarked upon the greatest offensive action since the beginning of the Russian campaign.

Dispatches to Moscow from the front reported that the Russians had effected break-throughs at several places on the southern front, killing 200 Nazi soldiers and seizing two large junction points.

NAZIS ADMIT REHD GAIN

Simultaneously, heavy Soviet tank forces were reported smashing ahead in the Orel sector, 250 miles north of Kharkov.

In this area the German high command, as quoted by the Berlin radio, conceded the Russians had broken through their line northeast of Orel and declared a mass attack had forced the German divisions entirely on the defensive.

Marshal Semen Timoshenko was said to be employing upwards of 90 armored and infantry divisions in the great southern push, aimed at driving the Nazis back across the Dnieper river along a line from Dnepropetrovsk south to the Black sea.

At the same time the Russians were said to be intensifying their attacks at many points on the central and northern fronts and blasting incessantly at the encircled 16th German army at Staraya Russa.

NAZIS FACE ANNIHILATION

The early annihilation of this force, before the Germans are able to mass a sufficient troop relief to the south and west of Lake Uman, was believed by qualified London sources to be an essential part of the Soviet strategy.

Cleanup in that sector would free two to three Russian army corps—sufficient, probably, to give the Red army a heavy superiority in manpower for a quick thrust westward toward Lake Peipus.

Such an operation would expose the flank and rear of all the German armies besieging Leningrad and holding the Volkhov-Lake Ladoga line.

AXIS LISTS HUGE U. S. SHIP LOSS

ENEMY REPORT

By the Associated Press

Heavy new blows against the Allies at sea were claimed by the Axis today, with the Germans asserting 823,200 tons of shipping had been sunk in American waters and the Italians reporting success in attacking "a great British naval squadron" in the eastern Mediterranean.

Premier Mussolini's high command said waves of Italian torpedo-carrying planes scored hits on three British cruisers and probably sank one of them.

An Italian submarine was acknowledged missing.

The German version of the Mediterranean battle listed five British cruisers as damaged—three hit by Italian torpedo planes, another by German bombers, and the fifth hit twice by U-boat torpedoes.

Adolf Hitler's high command, in a special communique, said German submarines operating in North and Central American waters had sunk 17 more merchant ships totalling 108,000 tons, making a total of 772,500 tons sunk by the Nazi raiders off the American coast.

Italian submarines were credited by the Berlin radio with sinking an additional 50,700 tons.

In the Windward Islands, West Indies, the communique claimed one German submarine penetrated the inner harbor of Port Castries, British island of Santa Lucia, sinking two big ships anchored at the quay and a third in waters off the island.

GIRLS CHOOSE DEATH TO CAPTURE BY JAPS

By LARRY MEIER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 12 (INS)—Only to be turned away with comfortable emptiness and the bleak assurance that "no news is good news," hundreds of men, women and even children stood pitifully in line in Britain's colonial office today.

All vainly hoped for a miracle—that their relatives and loved ones at Hongkong somehow had escaped from the fearful hell the Japanese have created there. Most of the sad-faced inquirers who joined the dismal line admitted they had no hope. One was a chronic invalid, Mrs. Robert Cast, who somehow made her way to Whitehall.

"I have been notified that my son is missing," she said. "I trust in God that he is safe. But he must be suffering at the hands of those terrible beasts."

Gray-haired Mrs. Alfred Lyons closed her suburban vegetable stall and walked to the colonial office. "I haven't slept," she said, "since the war office notified me that my son Alfie is missing."

"It was a nightmare to listen to Foreign Secretary Eden, who revealed the Japanese atrocities at Hongkong."

"Alfie always was one for getting himself into trouble. He wouldn't think twice before hitting the dirty, yellow scum if they laid hands on him."

"I keep on imagining him being one of those poor soldiers bayoneted to death."

ANGER BUT NO TEARS

A new office with a staff of 10 sympathetic listeners has been installed in the colonial office to handle queries regarding Hongkong. But all questioners emerge disappointed and mumbling:

"They weren't able to tell us anything. They just took our names and told us to keep up hope and promised to notify us as soon as they heard anything."

There were few tears and no hysterics, but anger and despair were written on every face. Many of those visiting the colonial office carried newspaper clippings telling of new horrors at Hongkong.

"MY SISTER'S THERE"

Standing in a pea soup drizzle awaiting interviews, well-dressed and poorly-clad Britons (young and old, eagerly sought bits of information from each other.

"Have you heard anything . . .?" they would ask. "How many got away . . . ? Do you think things are as bad as Eden

More Civilian Flying Courses

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The CAA civilian aviation training program today was ordered more than doubled in size.

Students given elementary pilot training will be raised from 25,000 to 45,000 a year. Facilities of the secondary flying course will be tripled to train 30,000 annually. Training is to be provided for 31,000 ground technicians.

The frail little man who re-nounced the title of Mahatma (saintly one) and even formal leadership of the All-India Congress Party, said in an interview that Britain must confess the crime of imperialism and undo it.

Replying to the question,

"What should the British government do immediately to settle the Indian problem, Gandhi said:

"You put a difficult if not awkward question. I hold extreme views about the British connection."

"In spite of Mahatma Gandhi my love for the British, I think their imperialism has been the greatest crime against India. The immediate thing therefore that the British government should do is confess the wrong and undo it."

ONE VITAL STEP FIRST

"Of the undoing there is yet no sign visible in the Indian sky. Yet I cannot help thinking that before Britain can claim superiority she must take this first step."

"Then all else follows as day follows night. I will not make impertinent suggestions by way of practical steps. Their (the British) conviction of the wrong will show the way."

At Bombay Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Muslim League, reiterated today that the only solution of the problem would be "India's division into separate, autonomous Hindu and Moslem states."

Jinnah, leader of India's minority of 77,000,000 Moslems, made no direct reference to the forthcoming visit of Sir Stafford Cripps as special envoy of the British war cabinet to determine whether the cabinet's plan for eventual dominion status for India will work.

He asserted that the British government "must not be stampeded into adopting a settlement which will prejudice or militate in any way against the Moslem

The 1100 employees of Carter's gave their promise of $100,000 to the campaign and send the total figure above the 21 million dollar mark . . . $21,033,331, to be exact. Lynnaill F. Carter, assistant treasurer of Carter's, told the BUY A MASSACHUSETTS BOMBER editor (5 Winthrop square, Boston):

"In the more than 75 years this company has been in business we have always subscribed wholeheartedly to any plan in the interest of national defense.

"It, therefore, was no surprise to us to find approximately 91 per cent of our more than 1100 employees pledging to purchase approximately $70,000 in BONDS. "The company has already purchased $25,000 in BONDS, and we anticipate that the total purchases by the company and employees will exceed $100,000 in 1942."

INVESTMENT IN FUTURE

Mr. Carter said the payroll deduction plan was offered to the employees a short time ago, and "we did this because of our confidence that it was an investment in the future welfare of our employees as well as our country and the knowledge that our country NEEDS the support of EVERY ONE of us."

Many employees "have stated that they have made outright purchases of BONDS, or in many cases are purchasing STAMPS and intend to join the payroll deduction plan after they fill their STAMP books," Mr. Carter wrote.

"We are very enthusiastic about the plan and this enthusiasm is reflected in the action of our employees."

4 Strip Dancer Denies Part in Lure Murder

By MICHAEL E. CLAFFEY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 12 (INS)—In the visitors' cubbyhole at the Women's House of Detention, Madeleine Webb today turned against the sweetheart who had tried to take her on a short cut to luxury—a short cut that allegedly ended in murder.

With the light filtering through the barred window leaving a prophetic pattern across her once-beautiful face, the 28-year-old former showgirl hysterically denied any part in the strange murder of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, 52, at the Hotel Sutton last Wednesday. No longer the glamour girl of third-rate night clubs and World's Fair nude shows, Madeleine blinked back tears behind her glasses like the terrified small-town girl she was when she left her mother in Stillwater, Okla., eight years ago.

SHE'S SORRY NOW

"If the courts believe me and if everyone believes me, I intend to go home and stay with my mother in Oklahoma," she sobbed.

John Cullen Eli Shonbrun

"My heart is broken. It will never heal."

"If I get out I will work until I die to support myself. I will not indulge in men. I'll never marry. I don't want to be deceived again."

Tomorrow the grand jury will be asked to indict Madeleine, her paramour Eli Shonbrun, 33-year-old petty thief, and John D. Cullen, 45, for the Reich murder.

Madeleine, clutching her pepper and salt tweed coat close about her slim form as she talked across the table with the reporter, didn't refer to Eli as "lover" or "sweetheart."

She used the word "husband," although Shonbrun, according to police, has a wife in New York.

The police say Madeleine "lured"

Mrs. Reich, wealthy Polish refugee, to the Sutton so Cullen and Shonbrun could rob her of the $2000 in jewelry she was wearing.

Mrs. Reich reached the Sutton Wednesday to keep a "luncheon" engagement with "Miss Webb," according to the victim's husband, and her body, trussed and gagged was discovered Thursday.

"I left the Sutton hotel Wednesday morning," Madeleine said, "to get some things. Eli told me he would meet me in Brooklyn later. I went to a movie in Brooklyn and he picked me up around 5 or 6 o'clock."

"We didn't go back to the Sutton. We were together in New York Wednesday night."

DENIES PART IN MURDER

"You know Mrs. Reich died that afternoon or night?" she was asked.

"I know nothing about that."

"How did Mrs. Reich get into the apartment?"

"It's my place"—she pounded her fists on the table and wept—"but I don't know how she got there."

"The district attorney says you lured her there," she was reminded.

"How could I lure her there, when I haven't even spoken to her for over a year," she retorted.

"Do you know," she murmured, "I've aged ten years since Saturday when I read in the papers I was wanted."

"Eli wanted me to come in and clear myself, but he has a bad heart."

"He was my husband. Would your wife leave you if you were suffering a heart ailment, and you couldn't get out of bed? I was not going to leave him."

Madeleine and Eli were caught Tuesday night in a Bronx rooming house some hours after Cullen had been picked up.

HURLEY IN NEW ZEALAND

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, March 12 (AP)—Patrick J. Hurley, first United States minister to New Zealand, arrived here today to assume his post.

N. E. OILMEN DEMAND NATION SHARE GAS CUT

Protesting that the East should not be made to bear the oil shortage alone, independent oilmen of New England today called for equal distribution of tank cars on a nation-wide basis to ease the situation which makes rationing of gasoline for this section a certainty.

Petroleum Co-ordinator Ickes said card-rationing would be organized by Price Administrator Henderson as soon as possible. Ickes said he planned curtailment by nearly one-fourth of gasoline sales in the East by other methods until the rationing is put into effect.

Senators and representatives of all New England States were urged by the independent oilmen to "press for proportional allocation of petroleum transportation facilities."

Clyde Morrill, executive director of the Independent Oilmen's Ass'n of New England, said it was "only fair that this burden should be shared by the entire country."

"The Midwestern States," he said, "are attempting to put the rationing burden entirely upon us here in the East. That section is served entirely by railroad and truck tank cars and is not directly affected by the present sea tanker shortage."

"We're willing to do our part, and more, but the whole country is at war and it's only fair that the rest of the United States share in this emergency."

The telegram to Congress read:

"Twenty-two and one-half per cent of refined petroleum products consumed in the United States is utilized in New England. We request that you press for a proportional allocation of petroleum transportation facilities for our section of the country."

"Fair distribution of tank cars available particularly imperative immediately."

Morrill said tanker space was being reduced "very rapidly" due to necessity of hauling petroleum to the Southwest Pacific area. He estimated each tanker required 4 months for the 14,000-mile round trip.

Meanwhile, officials estimated the Bay State gasoline supply on Feb. 1 was 5,094,819 gallons below the stocks on hand on Feb. 1, 1941, and predicted the East's 10,000,000 motorists would soon be faced with gasoline rationing.

Reduced allotments to filling stations and shortened stationing hours, are being considered in the efforts to alleviate the shortage.

In a race today with the stork from Wrentham st., Dorchester, to the New England Hospital for Women and Children, Dimock st., Roxbury, Matthew Roguski, a Boston Navy Yard tool worker, lost out by a nerve-wracking 10 minutes.

As Roguski sped along with his wife in his car, a girl weighing eight pounds seven ounces made her debut into the world—and probably she never will know the exact sport of her arrival.

For the trying 10 minutes, the Navy Yard worker continued on and finally pulled up at the Scoll maternity building of the hospital.

He sprinted in and emerged quickly with a doctor and nurses. The 25-year-old mother and her child were cared for, and a short time later it was announced at the hospital that both were doing splendidly.

The Roguskis are from North Attleboro but have been living in Wrentham st.

Girls Forego Frills To Pay 1st War Tax

By ALICE BISSELL

Boston Evening American Staff Reporter

Strangely, they are happy about the whole thing—but the war and income taxes are going to strip many young things of their fripperies and fineries for the duration.

This year, for the first time, hundreds of stenographers and clerks and salesgirls are paying income taxes, but today, at the income tax bureau in the federal building, they talked gaily of the sacrifices they must make to compensate.

They'll wear their clothes down to shreds—even to patches.

Another young Axis-smasher, Evelyn Maryanski, 20, Rock Glen Circle, Medford, is a clerk and saved money for taxes by bringing her lunch to work. That saves a lot.

"I think also that care of one's health to avoid doctor's bills is another important way to save money. It may be rough on the doctors but us girls simply must save for taxes to beat the Axis."

BETTER WIVES

Madelyn Rogers, 19, of Bird st., Dorchester, is a salesgirl in what is generally known as the lower pay brackets, but confessed she was thrilled to be among the crowds paying taxes. As a matter of fact, she visualized an entirely "New Deal" in marital economics for the years to come.

"I think," she said, "that when the war is over we girls will have a laugh of our own at the Axis."

"All the things we have to give up will make us better wives for the boys when they come home. We'll be trained to cook and sew and stay at home—and above all—be economical."

She admitted too that the "tax" exacted on her brain at the Internal Revenue office today was considerable. . . . "but that's the duty of a good wife, to keep the family finances," she added cheerfully.

Harvard Degree Seen For MacArthur

General Douglas MacArthur, doughty defender of America's most cherished military traditions, may shatter one of Harvard's strictest and oldest rules by receiving an honorary degree in absentia next June.

University officials declined comment on the story appearing in the Crimson today that the Philippine commander would be honored at commencement although busy in the distant Pacific.

Should MacArthur be granted a degree without being present he would become the only person beside General George Washington to be so honored. Washington received a degree in 1776 while leading the tiny American Army in its fight for freedom.

Harvard tradition requires that announcement of honorary degrees be withheld until commencement day and that the person to be honored must attend or else the degree is not given.

Under existing war conditions, MacArthur would find it somewhat inconvenient to be present, the Crimson pointed out.

BRITISH BAN ALL PLEASURE MOTORING

LONDON, March 12 (AP)—All unessential motoring will disappear this summer from England's roads under a new rationing system which will withhold gasoline from everyone except those proving genuine need, it was officially disclosed today as the government clamped down on wartime frivolities with sharp new measures to restrict sports events.

Geoffrey Lloyd, parliamentary secretary for petroleum, said in the House of Commons, replacement of the present basic gasoline ration—which allows motorists fuel for 200 miles of driving a month—by more rigorous controls would be gradual. He explained the purpose of the change was "to end pleasure motoring for the present" and ultimately to take "all unessential cars off the road."

Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, also said in the House, restrictions on sports events, such as racing and boxing, also would conserve gasoline and, further, reduce the number of hours lost in vital industries.

Beginning with the April-May period, supplementary gasoline allowances will be reduced and the purchasing power of basic gasoline ration coupons will be cut in half.

On July 1 the basic ration will cease to exist and the only way to get gasoline will be to make a specific application with satisfactory proof that it is necessary.

In sports and entertainment there was good and bad news for Britons.

They were told there will be no further restrictions on theaters, movies, dancing and football.

But they also were told that dog racing will be limited to one day a week at each track, that horse racing will be restricted to a few tracks—also with an eye to economy in transportation—and that professional boxing, already sharply curtailed, will be further reduced.

The measures together were an answer to an outcry from the public against motorists who spend gasoline to attend sport events while the nation is pleading for more sacrifice and more work and the seamen are risking death to bring it here.

Ceylon Women, Children to Go

LONDON, March 12 (INS)—Evening newspapers today carried reports from Colombo that Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Layton, commander-in-chief of Ceylon, has ordered the evacuation of all non-essential men, women and children from the island as soon as passage can be arranged.

The unsettled situation and the food problem were given as reasons. Ceylon, in the Indian ocean south of India, might reasonably be one of the next Japanese objectives. Colombo has one of the finest harbors in the Far East.

P. T. Barnum's Home Town Not To See Circus?

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., March 12 (AP)—This home city of the late P. T. Barnum learned to its chagrin today that it might not be able to accommodate the big circus this spring.

A meeting of the city board of park commissioners disclosed that streets were being cut through the old circus lot and that the site would be unsuitable for the "big top."

Bridgeport, which counts among its circus reminders thoroughfares named Barnum ave. and Tom Thumb st., served as winter headquarters for the big circus years ago.

MANUFACTURERS URGE STIFF U. S. SALES TAX

By GRIFFING BANCROFT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 12—Calling for a stiff general sales tax and a 90 per cent levy on "excess war profits," the National Association of Manufacturers today laid before Congress a proposed substitute for the Treasury's tax problem.

As submitted to the House Ways and Means Committee by J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of the board of Universal Pictures, Inc. and head of NAM's government finance committee, the plan would:

1—Increase lower and middle bracket income taxes about 50 per cent instead of doubling them as the Treasury has proposed. This, NAM estimated, would produce $1,600,000,000 in new revenue from this field of taxation, while the Treasury has asked that these levies be boosted a total of $3,200,000,000.

2—Slash federal non-war spending by $2,000,000,000 "and make this sum available for war financing in addition to the added taxes."

3—Levy a general federal sales tax, either a flat 4 per cent on all retail sales, to yield $1,800,000,000, or a combined 4 per cent on manufacturers' plus another 4 per cent on retailers' sales, to yield $1,400,000,000.

4—Boost normal corporation income taxes to 40 per cent instead of to 35 per cent as called for by the Treasury, and then place a 90 per cent levy on excess profits, but with more liberality for the corporations in computing what are excess profits than is allowed under present law.

Altogether, NAM would take an additional $1,500,000,000 in corporate taxes, while the Treasury's plan—embodying the much higher normal impost—would extract an additional $3,000,000,000 from this field.

Declaring that even NAM's milder corporate increases will result in curtailing payments to stockholders by some $2,000,000,000, Cowdin said that "these taxes will take from industry every last dollar that can be taken consistent with the tremendous war production program."

The new levies, he said, will mean that of the country's total corporate income of $11,000,000,000, some $8,000,000,000 will be going to taxes. Of the remaining $6,000,000,000, only half could safely be paid to stockholders, he declared.

8 DANDELION TODAY, TIRE TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Don't cuse that little dandelion when it takes over your well-groomed lawn this spring.

It might help produce a new tire before the war is over.

Scientists here today to urge the House agricultural committee to make available funds for experimentation in the use of plants and weeds, believe a certain type of dandelion, properly cultivated and developed, can be a source of much-needed rubber.

Their official name for the variety is "kek-sayz," but it looks like any other dandelion, down to the bright gold bloom and the green leaves.

Experiments widely conducted in Russia have convinced Dr. Paul Katchov, a Louisville research expert, that "if from 150 to 200 pounds of crude rubber per acre are obtained in Russia from kek-sayz, we are positive these yields could be increased on American soil by American farmers with improved machinery."

Because of its lower wax content, Dr. Katchov said, the Russians have found their dandelion superior to guayule, a Southwestern United States weed for the development of which Congress recently made an appropriation.

Records he produced showed natural rubber could be made from the dandelion for about 31 cents per pound, which he said was about half the cost of synthetic rubber. Additional experimentation might get the figure even lower, he believes.

The doctor doesn't believe official Washington has sufficient information on this little plant, and contended that available data on it had about "the same degree of accuracy as the information the world had about the Red army."

6 SAILORS, FROSTBITTEN, LAND; 15 LOST

NEW LONDON, Ct., March 12

(AP)—Six crewmen from the torpedoed Brazilian vessel Cayru, suffering greatly from exposure, and the body of a passenger were landed here today by the Navy. The six were the only survivors of 21 men who set out in the ship's No. 4 lifeboat when the Cayru was sunk off Ambrose Light Sunday evening.

(In yesterday's dispatches a passenger on the Cayru was listed as Dennis Sheehan of Cambridge. Today the real passenger was reported as "unidentified.")

Their lifeboat was sighted last night by a naval vessel searching for survivors with the aid of aircraft. The Navy said 38 men and women from the Cayru still were unaccounted for.

Ten passengers and 75 seamen had put out in the Cayru's four lifeboats, of which two are still missing.

A Norwegian freighter picked up one lifeboat of 26 survivors—four passengers, the rest crewmen—and these were brought to New York Tuesday.

Brazil Seizes Axis Folks' Cash

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12—Brazil today confiscated up to 10 per cent of the funds of Axis subjects in this country in a decree which branded Germany, Italy and Japan as aggressors and strengthened belief that a declaration of war might follow.

The decree by President Getulio Vargas said the confiscations were based on "acts of war practiced against the American continent," and singled out Germany as particularly responsible.

Since Germany, Italy and Japan are allies, they are "counted in aggression," the decree stated.

It blamed Germany for failure to pay admitted obligations for damage to a Brazilian ship in the Mediterranean some time ago and for attacks on peaceable unarmed Brazilian merchantmen—at least four of which have been sunk recently off the United States coast.

Questions and Answers About VITAMINS

What are vitamins? Vitamins are essential foods, just as are minerals, proteins, fats and carbohydrates.

Why are vitamins so important? Everyone needs a full supply of vitamins to feel fit. They help the body use other foods properly—help build resistance to colds and infections. They are needed for normal growth in children.

Where do I get vitamins? From foods—especially the protective foods, milk, eggs, fruit, vegetables, meat, and whole-grain cereals. To make sure of getting enough vitamins, many people fortify their diets with a well-balanced vitamin-minerals supplement, like the new Vimms.

What are Vimms? They are little tablets. Easy to swallow and pleasant to eat. No yeast or fishy taste. Vimms contain 6 vitamins and 3 minerals. Vimms give you the right amounts of all the vitamins you may need to fortify your diet.

Why six vitamins? Because there are six vitamins that authorities consider essential in the daily diet. Also because people who are deficient in one vitamin are likely to be low in others.

Do Vimms contain B Complex vitamins? Yes Vimms have all 3 essential vitamins of the B Complex (B₁, B₂ and P.P.). And they also have Vitamins A, D and C.

Why three minerals? Iron, Calcium, and Phosphorus round out the team. Vitamin D, for instance, can do little for you without enough Calcium and Phosphorus.

Can Vimms give me all my vitamins? Yes. Vimms are a balanced vitamin mineral food supplement. Of course, you also need other food elements as well.

Isn't vitamins expensive? Not when you get them in Vimms! They cost only a few cents a day, the lowest cost ever for any product of comparable type and potency.

Do I need extra vitamins? Government experts estimate 3 out of 4 Americans are not getting enough vitamins and minerals. If you are irritable, tired, "blue," if you are an easy victim of colds, you may be low on vitamins and minerals.

How often should Vimms be taken? Daily—regularly—like other foods. Vitamins are not stored in the body to any great extent.

SPEED WORK ON LIFELINE TO ALASKA

WINNIPEG, Man., March 12 (INS)—Fighting against time—against a time when Japan may hurl its forces into an Alaskan invasion—United States soldier-engineers today sped preliminary work on the highway lifeline which eventually will link cities south of the border with Fairbanks, Alaska.

Although the route has not been definitely set for many miles of the distance, the troops already are rolling northward with complete equipment of jeeps, huge trucks, machinery, Army kitchens, tents and materials.

The road will hook up with the United States highway system at some point on the border not yet disclosed and proceed to Edmonton, Alberta. From there, the highway is expected to swing northward through Dawson Creek and Ft. John on to Ft. Nelson. West of Ft. Nelson, the rugged, difficult Wolfe range must be traversed and then the bottomless "mossing" swamp area before Whitehorse is reached.

The route from Whitehorse to Fairbanks is still unsettled, but Army fliers today are making aerial surveys and their photographs presumably will be a considerable factor in the eventual decision.

Msgr. Ready Sees Pagan Forces Threatening U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Msgr. Michael J. Ready, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said in a sermon today that the liberty and institutions of the United States were threatened by the same "rampant totalitarian military forces" which harass the Catholic church.

"We have our own national sins to confess and repent, but thank God our nation as a nation still guards inviolate the rights of the church to carry on with full liberty her own mission of salvation," said Msgr. Ready.

His sermon was a part of services in honor of the third anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII. They were held here at the national shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the campus of the Catholic University of America.

"The church is not the creature of men, but men can impede and even for a time destroy the mission of the church," Msgr. Ready said. "They can set up schools and universities to teach men that there are no spiritual values in life. They can establish political systems that regard man as the creature of the states. They can usurp the just power of governments and persecute and harass and imprison the church for insisting on her right to teach Christ's truth and to administer Christ's grace."

"They can muster armies and set a pattern of international treachery and outlawry by which to engulf the peoples of the earth in the blood and sweat and tears of war. They can de-throne Christ and then shout out as pagans of the past 'There is no other God but Caesar.'"

"The liberty and institutions of our own nation are threatened now by the same dominant alien, materialistic ideas and by the same rampant totalitarian military forces which harass the church and all that the church has built in the course of centuries."

Nurse Is Witness In Dentist's Suit

Mrs. Irene Virginia Blair of West Newton was "very dramatic" and "often nagged her husband," a friend of the couple testified in Middlesex Court today as the divorce action of Dr. Lester G. Blair, Newton dentist, went into its second day.

Mrs. Eudora McQuaid, Brighton, registered nurse and self-styled "friend of both," said she nursed the dentist's wife in 1940 when Mrs. Blair's second child was born.

"On one occasion, after I had fixed her for the night, I sat in the kitchen having tea with a friend and heard things being slammed against the bedroom door," the nurse testified.

"When I went to see what the matter was, she shouted: 'You're talking about me in the kitchen. Call the doctor!'"

The nurse said it took an hour to quiet Mrs. Blair. Mrs. McQuaid also said she heard Mrs. Blair call the dentist vile names.

Henry F. Kersting of Auburndale, husband of Mrs. Blair's sister, summoned to tell of the time Dr. Blair said his wife tossed dishes at him, admitted seeing cuts on the dentist's forehead.

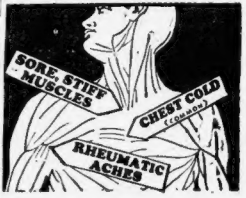

Kersting also said his sister-in-law ordered him and his wife out of the house at the time. He said he could not remember any statements made by her during the argument. Dr. Blair denied he was "a drinker" as had been intimated in testimony concerning a fall he took while in a Chinese restaurant.

He said he had three teeth extracted that day and got "very sick" after three Scotch and soda highballs.

The dentist charges his wife with cruel and abusive treatment and blames her jealousy of his office assistants for their troubles.

"Gosh, I didn't know a bank book could stop bullets!"

SURE IT CAN STOP THEM! Because many of the dollars in your savings account have been loaned to Uncle Sam to help buy bombers and battleships to stop the Axis. For instance, 37% of the deposits in Massachusetts Mutual Savings Banks are in government bonds. Enough to build 8,750 bombers or 10 battleships!

BUT THAT ISN'T ALL! 16% is invested in public utilities to supply power to win the war and in railroad bonds that keep goods moving. Another 40% is in real estate mortgages, many of which help house defense workers. So withdrawing money from the bank to buy bonds is like taking it from the government with one hand, giving it back with another. Keep your savings in the bank intact.

THE PATRIOTIC WAY is to save for bonds each payday, the way your government urges. To help you do it, we have formed the Victory Club. Each member pledges to set aside part of his pay every week to buy bonds. As soon as you have saved enough the Bank automatically buys a bond for you and you can start saving for another. Join today. Strike back at the dictators with both fists!

NEW PROBLEM FOR 3-A DRAFT HOPEFULS

Just how many of the thousands of 3-A registrants will be able to avail themselves of officer training became a matter for doubt today with the disclosure that dependents cannot be supported by the pay received during the candidate's six months of training.

With the release of details of the Army's new plan to allow men with dependents to qualify as officers in order that they may serve without imposing undue hardship on others, it was revealed candidates will receive only regular soldier's pay during training.

In other words, they will draw $21 per month for the first four months and $30 for the last two—a total of $144—with the possibility that they may not make the grade and be returned to civil life after the first four months.

In order to qualify for the course, a candidate must be eligible, first of all, for classification in the 1A, and secondly file an application to volunteer and a waiver of dependency, which must be signed by all his dependents over 15.

Next the candidate must pass a physical exam and a mental or aptitude test to determine his fitness for the course. The test will be given at an Army Reception or Replacement center, and all expense incurred must be paid by the recruitant.

If the candidate is found satisfactory by the Army, the draft board will place him in Class 1A and he then will be inducted. The first four months will determine whether he is fit for the advanced, two months course. If not he will return to civil life and revert to his original classification of 3A.

Those who complete the course will be commissioned second lieutenants with a base pay of $125 a month with allowances of $40 for rent and $36 for subsistence.

Mary Boland Too Ill to Act

HOLLYWOOD, March 12 (INS)—Barred from stage, screen and radio by the Actors' Equity Ass'n for assertedly walking out on a Theater Guild play in Chicago, Actress Mary Boland explained today that she left the show because of a serious illness.

"I simply couldn't go through with my part," Miss Boland said. "I appeared for seven weeks with the New York run of the show against the advice of my physician, but when they told me they were going on tour I informed them it would be impossible for me to do it."

"They insisted it would mean the closing of the play if I didn't appear, so I went on to Chicago. The weather was so bad there that I feared for my life. I told them the situation, which they knew anyway, and came home to Hollywood."

The actress suffered an attack of pneumonia in St. Louis.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Back-ache Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Sunday Movie Ban Holds in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., March 12 (INS)

A move to life a 120-year-old Sunday blue law so that movies could be shown in streets around Army training camps was an admitted failure today. The Mississippi House of Representatives defeated the proposal by a vote of 70 to 49.

Despite the fact that supporters of the measure asserted that Sunday movies were being sought only for soldiers in training in Mississippi, blue law adherents voted against the bill in the presence of a soldier-packed gallery.

12 Allied Spring Drive Into Norway Looms

ALLIED FLIERS AGAIN SMASH JAP ARMADA

London lost sight in an analysis of the battle of Java by Premier Peter G. G. of the Netherlands government in exile.

JAPS HAD 3 TO 1

The odds of the battle, he said, were 3 to 1 in favor of the Japanese. The odds were 14 to 1 in favor of the Allies.

Approximately 100 Japanese bombers, he said, were in the air. The Allies had 30 fighters. The Allies had 100 fighters. The Allies had 100 fighters.

All RAF planes returned, it said, although Japanese fighters tried to intercept them. One Japanese fighter was shot down.

RAF Bombs Lash Moulmein Again

LONDON March 12 (AP)—British bombers, operating from their new bases in central Burma, have carried out their second heavy attack within 48 hours on the Japanese-occupied port of Moulmein, according to an RAF communiqué relayed today by the All-India radio.

The raid was staged yesterday, the communiqué said, with "enemy positions" the chief target.

The apparent lull in the land fighting was borne out by the fact there was no new report from army headquarters.

A Chungking dispatch reported that the Japanese were constructing a network of trenches north of the railway junction town of Iegu, which lies 40 miles north of Rangoon.

control of Japan, Scandinavia would give the United Nations a convenient link with Russia through Finland and would put them in position to strike directly into the heart of Germany.

An offensive at the top of Europe might well be the extra contribution to Russia's cause which the United Nations have every evidence of expecting. There is plenty to win: A successful push could wipe Finland from the war, open and protect the whole Allied-Russian supply line via the excellent port of Murmansk and re-establish the Allies in Norway where they could organize and supply increasing resistance by the population.

COMMON FRONT

A common U. S.-British-Russian fighting front could be thrown quickly across the thin tip of Finland and now front in time might provide just the impetus which the Russians need to fan the whole German northern flank and collapse it upon the Baltic states and East Prussia itself.

Throughout the long winter the world has almost forgotten about the Murmansk front.

Now, however, there are these significant military and political developments to show that something big is stirring:

The Germans have moved at least four big ships, the super battleship Tirpitz, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, and the heavy cruisers Admiral Hipper and Prinz Eugen to the Norwegian coast. They are based on Trondheim and they are there to keep the Allies out of the north.

Actually, on the Germans' own authority, these ships or smaller ones of the German fleet have operated this week as far north as Bear Island between Spitzbergen and the North Cape, where, it was claimed, they sank a Soviet freighter.

Nazis Torpedo 2 Caribbean Ships

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—The Navy announced today that two ships, described as a medium-sized British tanker and a small Swedish freighter, but otherwise unidentified, have been torpedoed in the Caribbean area.

The Navy did not say whether the vessels were sunk, and no details were available.

Under a new Navy policy not to disclose the identity of ships sunk by enemy action, the names of the two vessels were withheld.

demand" for India's division, and added:

"My views are embodied in the resolutions of the Moslem League working committee; namely, that the league will without doubt revolt against any decision which recognizes India as being a single national unit, since for all practical purposes this would mean establishing Hindu domination."

There are 240,000,000 Hindus in India.

Sir Bijoy Prasad Sinek Roy, president of the National Liberal Federation, who has urged Indians to join the fighting forces, expressed considerable disappointment over Prime Minister Churchill's statements before the House of Commons yesterday, and said it meant only further deferment of the solution of the political deadlock.

While he conceded the difficulty of Sir Stafford's assignment, he said the latter would be helped by his broad sympathy for India. The Times of India hailed Sir Stafford's selection "as a great tactical stroke."

"The fact that he comes as the personal emissary of Churchill's war cabinet," the Times declared, "should convince India that Britain means business."

The Bombay Chronicle, which supports the All-India Congress party of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, deplored the additional delay, but proposed that the Indian factions adjust their differences and publish their "united demands even before Sir Stafford lands in India."

The extremely nationalistic Free Press Journal said his appointment was "a brilliant tactical maneuver. Whitehall is venturing out of the Maginot line of the August declaration."

Cripps' Visit to India Not to Take in Burma

LONDON, March 12 (AP)—An official spokesman said today that Sir Stafford Cripps' visit to India would not be extended to Burma. The problems in the two countries, the spokesman said, are not the same.

said... "I've heard they were even worse..."

Later, separately facing Colonial officials, their questions were straightforward:

"My sister is out there," said one. "For God's sake, can you get any word through?"

But the official don't know any more than the questioners.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Colthorpe sought news of their only daughter, Gwendolyn, a diminutive, blue-eyed 32-year-old nurse who volunteered for service at Hong Kong. They have had no word of her since November.

"Our only hope," said Colthorpe, "is that the Japs have spared the medical services for their own benefit. Gwen is a tiny woman, but she would fight to the last for herself and her patients."

PLEAS POUR IN

At least 300 crowded into the colonial office yesterday and there were more today. Incoming letters and telegrams poured in.

It is known that several hundred women were not evacuated from Hong Kong before it was taken by the Japs.

A nurse, Emma Whitehead, who returned to England seven weeks ago, revealed that all the nurses at Hong Kong had carried loaded pistols in their handbags. Miss Whitehead, former assistant matron at a British military hospital at Hong Kong, left 11 assistants at under 30.

"I pray my girls are dead," she said. "To think they are alive among those yellow devils is too horrible. Let's pray they had time to take their lives."

KEPT LOADED GUNS

"We often talked about what we would do if the Japs got in, and we agreed death would be nothing compared to what would happen if the Japs caught a white woman alive. So we kept loaded revolvers nearby. Most white women in Hongkong took the same precaution."

Meanwhile, dispatches from Chungking state that American and British civilians have been removed from Chinese hotels to a large prison and a boys' school and that war prisoners are quartered in three miserable camps.

Eyewitnesses say that Dr. Selwyn Clark, director of medical services at Hongkong, has been granted his freedom and is working day and night in an attempt to check the spread of cholera and typhoid.

TOJO CLAIMS U. S., BRITISH FLEETS SUNK

ENEMY REPORT

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts). March 12 (AP)—Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo told a special session of the Diet today that Japan has captured more than 210,000 prisoners since the start of war in the Pacific.

To the Diet, summoned to celebrate the conquest of the Dutch East Indies and hear reports on the first three months of the war, Tojo repeated the claim:

"The main fleets of the United States and Britain already have disappeared from the surface of the Pacific. All enemy strongholds in the Southwest Pacific are in our hands."

"Japan's defense position along the northern border (the frontier with Soviet Russia) is solid."

34 JAP SHIPS SUNK

Japan's navy minister, Admiral Shiro Tada, in his part of the summarization, said 330 United Nations warships had been sunk. He declared that the Japanese losses were "only four destroyers, four submarines, five special submarines, one special vessel, five mine sweepers and 27 transports." room for men and women who can guns had shot down or destroyed on the ground more than 1600 planes and Japanese forces had captured 2100 pieces of artillery, 140,000 rifles, machine guns and pistols and 28,000 tanks, motor cars and railway cars.

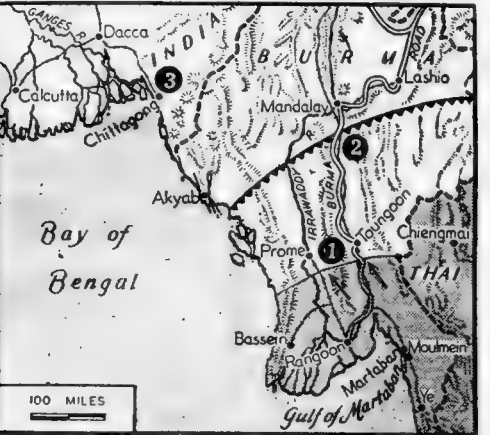

This list would be increased, he said, with detailed information from the Burma front on the capture of Rangoon.

The premier said many "industrial establishments and other vital resources" in the Netherlands Indies had been found to have suffered relatively little damage and were being rehabilitated.

LISTS HUGE SEA LOSS

Shimada said United Nations naval losses since the start of the war included seven battleships, three aircraft carriers, 12 cruisers, 22 destroyers, 44 submarines and 42 other warships sunk, and four battleships and 72 other warships, including cruisers and destroyers, damaged.

He said 128 merchant ships aggregating 680,000 tons had been sunk, and 92 ships totaling 300,000 tons damaged badly.

BURMA FRONT—With (1) shaded portions of map now in Japanese hands, (2) battleline moved north with British and Allied armies attempting to protect Mandalay and (3) Chittagong, nearest Burma city to India, believed object of next Jap drive.

IF YOU DON'T THINK modern football is a rough, tough game, United States draft boards stand ready to enlighten you . . . The Boston College champions of 1940 are having trouble getting into service . . . Latest to be deferred is Alec Lukachik, the Cambridge boy . . . It's a back injury that is keeping Alec out of uniform . . . Olie Olsen, the comedian, thinks he has discovered a great lightweight . . . The chap's name is Cleo Chans, and the producer-star of "Sons O' Fun" and "Hellzapoppin'," wants Rip Valenti to match the boy with a Boston lightweight . . . Chans won his only two fights in New York . . . The burlesque moguls think that Dagmar, who was booked directly from the Old Howard into The Beachcombers three weeks ago, is the "discovery" of the year

LOIS ANDREWS JESSEL COMING TO RIO CASINO

. . . The girl will play the Howard again next week (a record for brevity in time between bookings) . . . What makes it of local interest is that Dagmar (whose real name thus far has been shielded carefully) is a Waltham girl.

THE OUTSTANDING INDIVIDUAL hit of "My Dear Public" is the little acrobatic dancer, Miriam La Velle . . . The Colonial's stage-door keepers will bear this out . . . But the college boys who are sending in requests for autographs—and the pleasure of Miss La Velle's company—are wasting their time . . . Although she is only 18 (and was a "child-dancer" until last summer), Miriam's heart currently belongs to Joe Pevney, a Group Theater graduate and the lad who staged the book of "My Dear Public."

IT SEEMS STRANGE to have to report that a youngster steals individual honors from talented Miltz Green, who was one of the country's most scintillating prodigies when she was a child of six . . . It isn't Miltz's fault . . . The things she does best aren't given full play in her new show . . . Miltz carries a love story passably well but her forte is comedy . . . Incidentally, this column can't agree with the verdict of most of the critics that Irving Caesar has furnished his first musical show with a distinguished genre—"Our Private Love Song"—under tremendous plugging—may develop into a ballad but . . . "Rain on the Sex" is just a production number.

Shy Little Man Obeys Mother, Admits Murder

READING, Pa., March 12 (AP)—A frightened, lonely little man who officers said took his mother's advice and voluntarily detailed the death of his common-law wife, was kept in jail today while the district attorney's office studied what it said was a description of a crime motivated by jealousy.

No charges have been filed yet. He walked into headquarters said Police Chief George W. Schuck, and because a speech impediment aggravated by nervousness hampered his recital, handed officers this penciled card:

"To the chief of police, I, Mr. Jacob Hoffman, of 119 South St., Reading, commit murder. I hereby surrender to you. I am sorry it happened. She was my wife and I loved her dearly, but jealous I was, and that is the reason. Signed Jacob L. Hoffman."

At the address, investigators found the scantily clad body of Ruth Walk, 36, whom Schuck said Hoffman later told them he

SEVERAL BOSTON HOTELS are opening new lounges, and in two instances the designers have let their talents run riot in the matter of murals . . . The Kenmore's new cocktail lounge, "Mural Room," will be ready shortly for a pre-view . . . Mister Arkh-Yaven-sonne, the congenial and hospitable boss of the Fensgate, has unveiled a beautiful lounge called "The Suite Room," and the name derives from caricatures of local personages which hang on the wall.

Later the district attorney's office announced he had given them a statement which related: "She told me that if I didn't buy her a coat, this hircender would, and I could get out of the house. I told her 'I pay the rent here.' She wanted to throw a lamp at me."

The statement further related that he choked her and then she keeled over and he called to her and it was too late. Hoffman drank some household cleaning fluid, but it only made him ill.

Throughout the night, he remained with the body. Then early yesterday he sought out his mother who advised him to go to the police.

Getting Merry With Merry-Go-Round --It Just Won't Do!

LOS ANGELES, March 12 (AP) —Sorry, boys, but the error was caught in time: What the city council wanted, was to legalize a carousel. But what it almost got, was legalized carousels. A carousel, also spelled carousel, is a merry-go-round. A carousel is a drunken revel. The ordinance went back to the city attorney for revision.

CHURCHILL MAY YET BOW TO INDIA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
WIDE WORLD WAR ANALYST

British Premier Churchill's renewed offer of dominion status for India after the war may prove to be a less persuasive gesture than will be demanded of him in this life-or-death crisis when the great Indian empire is in deadly peril of invasion by the success-crazed Japanese.

The proposal of self-government (after the war) was made to the Nationalists nearly 2 years ago—and failed to click. The followers of Mahatma Gandhi have demanded their independence on the barrel head, and not at some indefinite future date.

Of course, Churchill's offer is accompanied by proposals which have not yet been made public. Still, the question likely will be raised as to whether he couldn't make the road easier, at a time when every hour wasted is a prop pulled from under the security of the already manhandled British Empire, if he said:

"We will grant dominion status forthwith, and all necessary formalities will be carried out. However, in view of the difficulty of setting up a new government, we ask you to agree that this be deferred to the end of the war."

WITH BRITAIN IN CONTROL

"Meantime, India shall have all possible representation in the present government, with the understanding that Britain remains in control of the military operations."

Under the circumstances it would not be surprising to see the Imperial take such a turn. Churchill is sending his new trouble-shooter the Leftist Sir Stafford Cripps, to India to try to solve the difficulty. Since Sir Stafford has been advocating Indian independence, it might be expected he wouldn't present a stiff neck to arguments for immediate action.

It must be emphasized that Churchill is dealing with one of the greatest problems England ever faced, even today it is made more difficult by the reiteration by the all-India Moslem League that the only solution it will accept must provide for separate autonomous Moslem and Hindu states.

While this unhappy political argument is proceeding, the conquering Japs in Burma are looking speculatively across the Bay of Bengal towards the not distant metropolis of Calcutta, capital of the great province of Bengal. The Japs know that Bengal is the hide-out of most of the sedition-mongers of India, and the number of these trouble-makers is considerable.

IDEAL TREACHERY SITE

The vast network of British secret service agents watches Bengal day and night. What more favorable spot could Jape desire for a landing?

It isn't suggested that the Indians as a whole would aid a Japanese invasion, despite their refusal to co-operate with the British if freedom isn't granted. Still, the mere fact that the natives were passive would be a godsend to the Japs. The Nationalists wouldn't be offering resistance to the invaders, and they wouldn't be working in the arsenals to provide the sinews of war for the British.

There's another danger spot on the northwest frontier in the region of the famous Khyber pass which leads through the towering stone mountains into Afghanistan. Along the frontier live the Mohammedans and other barbaric tribesmen whose main business in life is to make war on the British. I know these fellows from first-hand experience and they are tough.

German agents have been working on these wild men and providing them with arms, with the idea of inspiring an attack against the British. Then the inevitable end of Afghanistan itself is never safe to gamble on.

But of all the threats against India, the political difference between England the Nationalists is by far the most serious. It can do untold damage unless it is settled immediately, for the Paps are going to make hay while the rising sun shines.

Vets Take Fish Bowl to Capital

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 12 (AP)—Veterans of World War I today made preparations to escort the historic Fish Bowl from Independence Hall in Philadelphia to Washington for the lottery March 17 to fix the serial numbers of new selective service registrants. Because the drawing occurs on St. Patrick's Day, the escort will be composed of 25 veterans of Irish descent wearing green uniforms. The bowl, which served the same purpose in the first World War, will be taken by train to Washington the day prior to the lottery.

18 Legion Sons Joining Junior Victory Army

Sons of the American Legion, already engaged in a variety of defense activities under the direction of Dr. Theodore E. Lafayette, of Watertown, senior vice commander of the state detachment, are enrolling in the Junior Victory Army.

Inbued with the patriotic spirit of their fathers and grandfathers, who saw service more than a decade ago, these boys are carrying on in whole-hearted civilian defense measures.

In the organization boys under 12 are given training similar to that of Boy Scouts in woodcraft, personal cleanliness and obedience, while those between 12 and 18 are now engaged in defense efforts ranging from morale building to combating false propaganda.

To increase morale, entertainment units have been organized and present well-balanced shows of two hours in veterans' hospitals and other community centers. They have been used in many places to raise funds for defense stamps and bonds.

CANVAS FOR STAMPS

They have appeared in various small communities to obtain money for athletic equipment in promoting the physical development of youths and to outfit school bands. They are now engaged in raising a scholarship fund for the higher education of Sons of the Legion.

On March 20 the youths of this organization will begin a house-to-house canvas to obtain pledges for the purchase of stamps and bonds. Their advance program provides for the systematic collection of waste paper, rags, rubber and metals, turning the proceeds into defense stamps and bonds with a contest underway to decide the best showing for any county in the commonwealth.

WATCH FOR SABOTAGE

Members of the organization are studying first aid under Red Cross instructors, radio communications and learning to be stretcher bearers and message carriers for air raid wardens. In work shop units and other classes they are learning how to make wooden splints

Rifle clubs have also been formed throughout the state and the boys are being taught marksmanship and how to handle guns.

Older youths are being trained to watch for signs of sabotage, reporting suspicious actions to the proper authorities, and to combat false propaganda.

Units are now being organized to work in the woods on week-end camping expeditions and on farms to help stockpiles in materials and labor.

Active in directing the work of these boys Dr. Lafayette are: Frank Armstrong of the Watertown Post, Harry Richards, Suffolk County, John Ecoline of North Reading, Fred Kingsbury, Norfolk County, Louis Saunders, Essex

"Smart Set Functions," by Betty Alden, appears on the woman's page every day in the Boston American.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

EXCITING EVENTS have followed one another in swift succession in the debutante career of Bettie Warner Howe, who for the past four days has answered to the name of Mrs. Stephen Maurice Edgell.

To begin with, Bettie had a doubleheader debut and engagement party just before Christmas . . . Guests were invited by Mr. and Mrs. E. Warner Howe of "Farmlands" Concord, to attend a debutante tea in honor of their daughter, and on arriving were happily surprised to learn that the occasion was also a celebration in honor of Bettie's engagement to Steve Edgell . . .

Since then both Bettie and her fiancé have been doing their share to help win the war—Bettie serving as a lieutenant in the Women's Defense Corps and as a member of their volunteer motor corps . . . and Steve preparing for his important war time job by studying at the Massachusetts Radio and Telegraph Institute . . .

Last week, faced with a probable war-time separation the couple decided, as so many of their young friends have already done, to hasten their wedding plans . . . With but four or five days' notice they arranged the details and were married at Trinity Church last Saturday.

The newlyweds are returning from their honeymoon today to send out wedding announcements and spread the news of their marriage to those friends who were unable to attend the small family wedding . . .

The bride was graduated from Concord Academy . . . Mr. Edgell, son of Mrs. N. Stuart Campbell of Brookline and the late Stephen M. Edgell is a brother of those two popular post debs, Helena and Stephanie Edgell . . . His mother is now living in Pomfret, Ct. . . . The bridegroom is a nephew of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Dr. George Howard Edgell, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Winthrop T. Aldrich, famous Gotham banker and William W. Aldrich of Brookline . . . He prepared at the Beacon School in Wellesley . . .

ROUND AND ABOUT. . . . Diana Bird, escorted by one of her favorite North Shore socialite soldier boys, having fun in a tiny downtown bar . . . To the accompaniment of her beau's piano playing Diana sang a couple of impromptu numbers with such finesse that her friends wondered why she hasn't been snatched up by Vincent Club talent scouts . . . She wore a sophisticated black dress with butterfly orchids on the front, and the new black mesh stockings so dear to the hearts of young moderns . . .

One of Diana's intimate friends, Sister Sears, is making tentative plans to be married June 10th at Hamilton where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Sears, have a beautiful country estate . . . Sister's fiancé is Benjamin O. Gardner, a member of the junior class at Harvard . . . He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hallowell Gardner of Gardner Me . . .

Her friends are waging that by the time the next Social Register comes off the presses post-deb Pauline Tobey will have changed her name and find her new listing under the M's . . .

A SILVER COLLECTION. Instead of a charge for tickets, will help raise funds for the maintenance of a hospital for bomb-shocked children, at the benefit lecture which Sir Philip Gibbs will deliver in the Senior High School, Wellesley Hills tomorrow evening . . . The affair is sponsored by the British War Relief Association . . .

HERE'S PEEKIN' at you . . . Debutante Helen Harding 3d, smilingly peeks around the corner to give us a glimpse of the attractive Tiller Girl costume she will wear for her role in the Vincent Club musical "Tonight at Nine" which opens in John Hancock Hall tonight. Helen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Harding of Brookline.

Join Benefit Patronesses

Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall heads the list of patronesses for the Russian War Relief Ass'n's gala moving picture benefit to be held March 17 at the Trans-Lux. The program will include the premiere of a film, "Our Russian Front."

To add festivity to the occasion a bevy of post-debs will serve as flower girls in the lobby. The group will include Anne Phillips, Rosamond Higgins, Roberta Lee Halloran, Dorothy Comstock, Ann Casey, Jane Badger, Tamara Polevoy and Mrs. William B. Long, Jr. Patronesses include Mrs. Hugh Cabot, Mrs. Henry Cabot, Mrs. C. Sidney Burwell, Mrs. Walter Cannon, Mrs. L. Cushing Goodhue, Mrs. Leonard Carmichael, Mrs. John Wells Farley, Mrs. Conrad Wesselhoft, Mrs. David Aldrich Westcott, Mrs. Paul White, Miss Ada Comstock and Mrs. James B. Conant.

MARIAN BURRAGE WEDS IN WEST

Following a romantic cross-country dash by airplane to join her fiancé, Miss Marian Dana Burrage, daughter of Mrs. E. Hoyt Burrage of Framingham, was married at Lawton, Okla., to Corp. Conway Schultz, son of Mrs. W. G. B. Schultz of Lynn.

The bride left Boston the evening of March 5 and the wedding took place on her arrival at Lawton on the 7th. After a brief honeymoon she will return to Boston around the 18th of March.

Our Great MacArthur

So long as brave and free men breathe,
MacArthur's peerless fame
Will qird the armor of men's faith
And glorify his name.

Let no poor, feeble words be said,
Nor futile song be sung.
MacArthur's valiant deeds defy
The range of voice or tongue.

But rather let us humbly seek
The Lord's high altar stair,
There bow the head and bend the knee,
In thankfulness and prayer.

There make resolve that, come what may
Of sorrow, loss or pain,
Our staunch defender's mighty work
Shall not have been in vain.

Unfurl the banner of the soul
In freedom's shining light,
And follow great MacArthur on
For country, God and right.

ALICE GARLAND, 21 Furber lane, Newton.

THE PRAISE that General Douglas MacArthur is receiving in the United States Congress is as lavish as it is deserved.

A sample was the recent eulogy by Representative J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey.

Said the Hon. Mr. Thomas:

"The feat of arms that General MacArthur has performed, and is still performing, in the Philippines is destined to form one of the brightest pages in American military history.

"With great personal courage as the inspiring leader of his men, both American and Filipino, with outstanding knowledge of terrain and tactics, he has withstood overwhelming enemy forces in a fashion that no patriotic American can ever forget."

Beautiful words, those. Neither a Cicero nor a Daniel Webster would I hesitate to own them.

But—and we are sure the great majority of the American people will join us in asking the question—WOULD NOT A DOZEN UNITED STATES BATTLESHIPS LADEN WITH MEN AND GUNS BE MORE USEFUL TO THE HERO OF THE PHILIPPINES?

PEARL HARBOR was a terrible blow, and the loss of life during the Japanese attack was shockingly large.

Yet the Pearl Harbor death toll was small in comparison with the number of persons killed last year by automobiles on American highways.

The National Safety Council now reveals that traffic accidents were responsible for no fewer than forty thousand deaths and 1,400,000 injuries, many of them sufficiently serious to cripple the unfortunate recipients for life.

The current year's prospects are not much more hopeful. Greater use of automobiles by persons travelling long distances between their homes and war production plants, the inability to replace outmoded vehicles and restrictions on new tire sales will tend to increase accidents.

The only thing that can prevent them is better law enforcement by State and municipal highway patrolmen.

Speeding, always the principal cause of automobile collisions and wrecks, is doubly dangerous and costly today. IT MUST BE STOPPED.

Of course, if the rubber scarcity becomes as acute as Price Administrator Henderson seems to think it is going to be, none of us will have to worry much about motor mishaps.

Commenting on this possibility the other day, Benjamin De-Casseres, distinguished writer and columnist, said:

"There is no one in our godly country who enjoys a joke more than President Roosevelt. But can he take it, too? I rather think he can.

"Anyhow, I find a joke on the President in those newspaper headlines that read: 'Horse and Mule Markets Boom After 20 Years.'

"For it was the President who 'way back in his first administration gathered all ye White House press scribes around him and said apropos of the Supreme Court's unanimous decision scrapping the NRA that it was time the Supreme Court got rid of its 'Horse and Buggy' ideas.

"And now in 1942 back comes the horse and buggy!

"If this war goes on for five years more, our demand for rubber will be so great that it is possible automobiles will disappear almost entirely, and the Supreme Court may in the year 1947, or thereabouts, drive up to the White House front door en masse in a trio of shiny buggies and spanking bays and shout in chorus:

"'WE ARE HERE, FRANKLIN!'"

On The Side

We loved, sir—used to meet.
How sad and bad and mad it was
But then, how it was sweet!
—ROBERT BROWNING.

A STUDY of the fighting men in World War I revealed the most intelligent, skillful and courageous fighters were the Americans. The record indicated an American would fight better and longer than the men of all other nations. And the men of most other nations are very good fighters. I made this statement before the present war and it was greatly disputed. However, I am sticking to it. Look at the record of this war: Capt. Colin Kelly, Jr., and crew took off in a hurry with time to load only three bombs. At a height of 20,000 feet they let their three bombs go and every one was a direct hit, causing the sinking of one of the Japs' best battleships. And then, look at what Gen. MacArthur and men are doing!

SIDELIGHTS: "If I were paid a cent a day, with my pay doubled every day, for a month, what would be my day's pay for the 31st day?" asks a Chicagoan. On the 31st day, sir, your boss would have to pay you for your day's work the sum of $10,737,418.12 . . . Too many women try to take off too much weight. When women get below the weight nature intended for them they become short-tempered. No matter how beautiful and how slender a wife is, if she is always flying off the handle she is no bargain . . . Before D. I. (Defense Industry) 91 per cent of Americans made less than $2500 a year.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Joan Leslie is the only Camp Fire Girl to become a movie star. As far as I know, no Boy Scout has yet attained stellar honors in Hollywood . . . Of course, we all want to conserve gasoline to help defense. But how about giving us a little help. I mean, for example, why not arrange for the manufacture and general sale of that carburetor invented by a Canadian which was proven capable of making it possible for a car to go 180 miles on a gallon of gasoline? . . . In a magazine article Sen. Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, who spent many years in Japan, says: "If we could drop 1000 bombs on the munition factories of Tokyo and Osaka, we could save the lives of 50,000 United States soldiers and sailors. A few such bombings would paralyze the heart of industrial Japan and the heart of Japan is the place we must attack."

SAYS HE: "As for women," writes a San Franciscan, "one of the major faults of the modern female is that she is not sufficiently appreciative. She takes too much for granted. When a man spends his hard earned dough to take a girl to a high priced night spot he likes to get a little enthusiastic appreciation from his feminine companion. But he hardly ever does. As for married women, most of them whine, whimper and pamper little griefs too much. It has been said, a cheerful sympathetic wife is man's best possession; but how many men are fortunate to possess such a wife? Of a hundred men I know only one who has such a wife."

PLEASE NOTE: Who is boss at your house, sir? I ask you as if I thought you really know, you probably only think you know. I will tell you how to find out for certain. Get a tape measure and measure your forehead above the ear. Then measure your wife's forehead. The one with the widest forehead is the real boss of the house . . . that?" writes a Hollywoodian. Know it? Why I didn't even suspect it! How about Gene Tierney? I can hardly wait to learn whether she likes ice cream sodas but does not care for spinach, yellow slacks or left-handed pitchers.

ASIDES: "Every woman who is loved is a success," says Vicki Baum. Vicki is right, of course, but I recall a matron of experience once wrote me: "I cannot see how a woman can live with a man she doesn't love. Because it is terrible enough when you do love him."

BRIEFLY: In Manhattan I know a perfectly proportioned good-looking young woman who is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 250 pounds. Her many admirers insist she is the "world's most beautiful big woman" . . . The shortest route by air from coast to coast, according to Post Office Department figures, is the TWA which is 2619 miles. United Airlines route is 2773 miles. American Airlines 2831 . . . OTHER MATTERS: Total number of men killed in all this country's wars up to Dec. 7, 1941 was 241,357. This includes the Confederate dead in the War Between the States. In one 15-year period (1920-1935) 338,936 persons were killed in automobile accidents. A soldier in Batan in the Philippines is just as safe as the motorists on some United States highways . . . Beauty

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—There is time for luxury and relaxation . . . so smartly exemplified by Norma Shearer who matches her lounging pajamas to her pet tiger toy . . . and you'll find it in those few hours in which you indulge your complexion in necessary beauty aids . . . and some important ones suggested by Arline Gould today.

UNCLE SAM WANTS GIRLS TO BE PATRIOTIC, PRETTY

By ARLINE GOULD

UNCLE SAM wants you to be patriotic and pretty, too . . . avers a famous beauty authority . . . she says that you should save tin foil and your own precious skin . . . conserve gas and energy . . . build up defense and reserves of strength!

Just to remind you she goes on . . . with these words of wisdom . . . and if they enter with the welcome on your receptive mind that they received from ours . . . you'll be definitely the gayer in a world where losing for the wrong side is all too prevalent.

She says . . . take time to powder your face properly in the morning and you'll find it lasts twice as long. Don't be afraid to use plenty of powder. Smooth it on, and then brush off the excess. It "stays put" longer this way.

If you've never used a foundation in your . . . start on her nose, chin and forehead. You'll be delighted with the appearance of your complexion hours after you've forgotten you ever took time to apply makeup that day! A good foundation is also protective for the surface of your skin, remember. It's a double-duty cosmetic, if you choose the right one . . . beautifying and beneficial.

Learn about short-cut aids like a special dry skin lotion. For days when you just cannot take time out for a full treatment, use this lotion. It has fine emollient properties for lubrication. Apply it very lightly and it makes a super-foundation. And inexpensive enough so you'll feel happy and justified in lavishing it on your body and hands for the wonderful suppleness it brings.

Enjoy . . . even more than you always have . . . the luxury of bathing. It serves as a means of relaxation. And increasing so, if you dunk in a marvelously fragrant bubble bath. There are wonderful soaps . . . one a perfume that's our dream of heaven.

For information on any of these beauty aids, write Arline Gould, LIBERTY 6600, except the weekend, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEWS FOR MODERN WOMEN

FOOD

By Martha Lee

THIS IS THE SEASON of the year when lamb comes to mind often when that daily question, "What shall we have for dinner?" must be answered. Although lamb is no longer a seasonal meat but may be obtained all the year 'round, still it does seem to be more popular toward spring. And there is a good supply of high quality lamb in the market now, at very reasonable prices.

As a variation from the leg of lamb as the usual choice in lamb roasts, occasionally try a rolled shoulder of lamb. The meat is fine in flavor, tender and juicy, and it is a particularly wise choice for the smaller family. The shoulder bone, which makes this cut awkward to carve, is removed at the market and the meat is then rolled and tied into shape. The result is a compact roast.

A rolled shoulder of lamb is roasted like any other roast. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place it on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water and do not cover the meat. Place it in a slow oven (300 to 350 deg. F.) and allow 25 to 30 minutes to the pound for a medium-done roast.

GARNISHMENT

In the accompanying illustration, rolled shoulder of lamb is given a festive appearance by garnishing with whole apricots. The roast is also basted with apricot puree, a blend of flavors which will delight an epicure. The apricot puree is made by rubbing 2 cups of cooked apricot juice and fruit through a colander, adding to this $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar and cooking slowly until thickened.

Browned pears and roast shoulder of lamb are another fruit and meat combination to delight family and guests. Cover halves of cooked pears with grated cheese and place them in the pan around the roast about 30 minutes before the meat is done.

Minted or spiced apples placed about the roast offer another tempting variation.

Another way of preparing shoulder of lamb is to have it boned and then to place a stuffing in the cavity. This called a cushion style lamb shoulder.

STUFFED LAMB SHOULDER

(Cushion style lamb shoulder)

2 cups bread crumbs
2 tbsp. grated onion
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 egg, slightly beaten
Meat stock or hot water
Salt
Pepper

Have a cushion shoulder of lamb prepared at the market. Combine bread crumbs, grated onion and parsley. Season with salt and pepper and add slightly beaten egg and enough meat stock or hot water to moisten dressing. Pack into the cavity in the shoulder and sew edges of opening. Place on a rack in an open pan and roast in a slow oven (300 to 350 deg. F.) allowing 25 to 30 minutes per pound.

There are many kinds of dressings that can be used to stuff a shoulder of lamb, and the flavor of the meat is cooked into them. This is an economy idea, too, because there are a larger number of servings possible when a stuffing is used. Here is another suggestion:

RICE STUFFING

1 tsp. grated onion
1 tbsp. drippings
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup uncooked rice
2 cups stock or water
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. poultry seasoning
1 egg

Brown the rice in the drippings until a golden brown. Add onion, stock and seasonings. Cover and cook slowly until the rice is tender, about 30 minutes. Remove from heat and add beaten egg. Fill the pocket loosely with the rice stuffing. Sew or skewer the opening. Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not cover and do not add prepare and easy to carve. It is economical, too, for there is little waste.

The Correct Thing

By Union Ames

CUTE . . . BUT NOT CORRECT!

The youngster contentedly munching a "drumstick" looks cute . . . but he'll have to learn to use his knife and fork when eating chicken legs and wings or chops. It's bad manners to pick up chicken and chop bones in the fingers!

Fashion

PORTRAIT OF A LOVELY GIRL . . . in summer black . . . and it's Lana Turner playing a fashion role quite a bit different from the scintillant creature projected on the screen. Sheer black with self-trimming of inch-wide fringe has caplet sleeves of the length that's decreed for late afternoon and summer evenings . . . mind, when you buy things for daytime in town be sure that there is the distinguishing feature of correct sleeve length. Lots of far dressier clothes than usual will be around town, and sometimes you'll be able to judge their purpose chiefly by sleeve length. Lana does herself proud further in the big hat of felt and straw with billows of net overlaid on rim.—ANNICE BRINK.

FEWER, BETTER CLOTHES YOUR WARTIME SLOGAN

By BETTIE BEDWELL

THERE IS A general held conviction among the leading fashion authorities that the most important thing to keep in mind in choosing your clothes during the wartime emergency is fewer and better clothes. And even more important is the value of understatement in your dress.

There is nothing new about these rules. For many years they have controlled the purchases of women who know the most about the art of dress. But the idea is quite new to lots of women and girls who have been dressing on the principle of "drama" or knock-'em-dead, school of fashions. This is what is known as overstatement in dress, and unless you can buy new clothes very often it's deadly to a continuous charm of appearance.

Barbara Stanwyck, famed movie star, says "Too plain a frock is better than one too gaudy," which is putting the matter of under- and overstatement in dress in a nutshell. However, I think it's never necessary to wear a too-plain dress. That is an extreme. Wear one that doesn't stop them dead at first glance, but it can be interesting in a quiet way. This is understatement in its most effective version.

Study Children's Problems

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Wednesday — I received a telegram today reminding me that it is not in my power to draft anyone, that Congress will do that when the time comes. Of course, I did not need this reminder.

I only wished that this might be done in order that we could all feel easy in our conscience. None of us, with the knowledge that young people's lives are at stake, can be happy, unless we feel that we are doing the things which must be done.

The Children's Bureau Commission on Children in Wartime has called a meeting in Washington, March 16-18. This will bring together outstanding citizens and professional leaders from many parts of the country.

"to consider urgent steps for the protection and welfare of children in emergency situations resulting from the war." Many of you may have seen reports from England, which indicate that juvenile crime has increased 50 per cent on account of the unusual home conditions created by the war.

This will happen here, unless we start at once to meet the situation. The agencies which will have to work together on the problem are the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services and the Office of Civilian Defense.

This three-day meeting will cover such subjects as maintenance of school opportunities and child labor standards, civil protection of children, community services needed for children in defense areas—such as the organization of part-time care outside the home, medical care and prevention and treatment of juvenile delinquency, etc.

The attention of the nation should be focused on these problems, for we cannot neglect the welfare of our children in a time of war and expect to have a future worth fighting for.

We are shortly losing our White House greenhouse, which is going to mean that one of the things which has always been a great joy here—an almost unlimited amount of flowers—will be curtailed. We must look upon it as one of the things we have to give up, because it is out of the question to rebuild a greenhouse at this time.

Flock of Protential Stars Coming to Loew's Screens

MGM Boosts Young Hopefuls

With careers sprouting fresh as a bumper crop of Iowa corn, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new constellation of potential stars should shine brighter than ever during 1942 in the M-G-M hits soon to be seen at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

Prominent among the newer actors and actresses are Philip Reed, Donna Reed, Mark Daniels, Ray McDonald, Jackie Houser, Patricia Dane, Virginia O'Brien and Annie Rooney—all of whom have distinguished themselves in their first year on the screen.

Patricia Dane discovered in "Ziegfeld Girl" has achieved increasingly important roles during the year. From but a "walk-on" bit in "The Get-Away," Miss Dane went on to "Life Begins for Andy Hardy," "Johnny Rager" and "Rio Rita."

Another rising discovery is Ray McDonald, whose dancing feet have carried from a debut in "Life Begins for Andy Hardy" to "Down in San Diego," "Born to Sing" and "Rhapsody on Broadway," and has earned him a new contract.

Donna Reed, who passed up Hollywood offers until she could finish a college course, can now point to "The Get-Away," "The Bugle Sounds," "The Shadow of the Thin Man," a leading role in "Mickey," and her biggest role yet as Andy's new sweetheart in "Nurturing of Andy Hardy," as progress on the pathway to stardom within the past year.

Natalie Thompson, who made her film bow in "Ringside Maisee," climaxed a year on the New York stage by signing a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract. From Broadway this little Richard Quine, who left Hollywood after almost a score of "psyche hit" screen roles, to appear in several stage productions. He distinguished himself in the screen hit, "Rhapsody on Broadway."

From a leadpan lines singer to a popular young actress is Virginia O'Brien's 12-month record. She was signed from "Meet the People," in which head playgirls sang, and appeared in small roles in "Save Me from This Night," "Times Square," and "The Road to the House of the Living." In the "House of the Living," she played a girl who is a friend of a friend of a friend.

Philip Reed, whose first work was in "Down in San Diego," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, and "Born to Sing," a Warner Bros. production, has been signed to a new contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Jackie Houser, who played a girl in "The Get-Away," and "The Bugle Sounds," has been signed to a new contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

KATHARINE HEPBURN'S brilliant woman columnist portrayal hits the bulls-eye in "Woman of the Year," which is holding over a second week on Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

RODDY McDOWALL, as the youngest member of the Morgan clan, Huw, and Anna Lee, his beautiful sister-in-law, share an abiding affection in "How Green Was My Valley," Academy Award winning film now in its fifth smashing week at Keith Memorial.

Plays Role 2750 Times in Silence

Lillian Ardell has played one stage role more than 2750 times without uttering a word.

Since 1935, Miss Ardell has been on tour as Grandma Lester in the world-famous play, "Tobacco Road."

Now in her seventh season Miss Ardell is seen as Grandma Lester in the John Barlow-starring "Tobacco Road," in its fourth Boston engagement at the Plymouth.

"The role is as poignant to me today as it was when I first started playing it," says the actress. "Without any words to speak I must project through facial expression and gesture the character of the despairing, world-weary old creature."

Charlie Chan Film on Bill

The Scollay and Modern theaters tomorrow initiate what should be a smash week with "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the slick film comedy with Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Jimmie Durante and Mike Burke collaborating with Monty Woolley, who created the title-role for Broadway. On the same bill will be "Sick Against the Sky," adventure-romance.

TRUMPET-PLAYING
maestro
Clyde McCoy
and his popular

Orchestra
head the stage show,
opening
tomorrow
at the RKO
Boston.
The Abbott-

film hit,
"Ride 'Em, Cowboy," now in its third week,
continues
as the screen
attraction.

There will be an extra matinee of "The New Hellzapoppin'," the screamin' Olsen and Johnson revue at the Majestic Theater, tomorrow afternoon at 2 lo, in response to the unusual demand for tickets. This matinee is in addition to the regular Saturday matinee and is at popular prices. Expected to duplicate its Philadelphia success, the zany musical is announced only for a limited engagement.

The Masked Jury CAN HE FORGET?

WIFE DESERTS HIM

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY: Since you on the Masked Jury represent an average group of Americans I would appreciate it very much if you consider my problem.

I am a hard working, respectable and, I think, intelligent man, but I feel I am being seriously handicapped in attaining success because of my wife.

Before we married my wife kept company with a certain man for four months. This man had a bad reputation and her father forced her to quit seeing him. Then she married me and after several years of happiness she turned cold toward me. Her parents operate a business in another city and on weekends she used to go home to help them.

Every time she went home her former boy friend met her, and one night, while I stayed in to mind our baby, she stayed out. I was with this man until 4 in the morning. I told her she would have to forget him and she promised she would, but I know of one instance when she saw him even after that promise.

Later we moved to another state for three years and once, when we came back to visit her parents, they told me that this certain man had been killed in an automobile accident, which was not true. Two years ago my wife left me. I wrote to her to let her know where I was. She answered my first letter and sent me some pictures, but my next three letters she did not answer.

Do you think I should try to bring her back to me?

HOW THE JURY VOTED
Women: Yes, 4; no, 2
Men: Yes, 2; no, 4

FURRIER: No. If she has stayed away two years and he hasn't thought of doing anything about it up to now, then they are better off apart.

STEAMFITTER: Yes, if he thinks he needs her or their child needs her. He could at least go see her and find out what it's all about.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes, if he has the baby in his possession. It seems to me, though, that he's waited a long time to make up his mind.

STENOGRAPHER: No. She must want it that way or she would have answered his letters.

WINDOW TRIMMER: No. Apparently she doesn't want anything to do with him so I suggest he get her out of his mind.

CITY DETECTIVE: No. If she has stayed away that long it is his fault for never having done anything about it.

MACHINE OPERATOR (swims): No woman would want to take a man back who has let her be away from him for two years.

WAITRESS: Yes. I think he should try to get her back if he loves her so they could start over again.

DRUG CLERK: Yes. He had a right to do after her when she first wrote him, but I doubt if she would want him now.

BILL COLLECTOR: No. She probably never did love him and he ought to leave her alone.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes. He should ask her to come back to him, but I don't think it's going to do him much good after all this time.

HOUSEWIFE: Yes, but it certainly took him a long while to make up his mind.

Love

And Marriage

Putty in Her Rival's Hands

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've been married twenty years and have two children, one married and one at home.

My husband was a good husband and father until two years ago when he met a woman of 30 who has broken him financially and spiritually. She could get his eye teeth.

We've already separated twice over her. She comes to our town once a month and my husband rents a room for her and pays all her bills. When I find out about it, he cries and makes more promises. Since he's known her, he also has taken to drinking. He still insists he loves me. What am I to do?

MARY. When men get to the crying stage, beg their wives not to leave them and make promises which they're too weak to keep, they are in a rather pitiful state mentally. The history of such cases is that when the vamp has got his "eye teeth" and about everything else, back to the wife goes the husband, full of repentance, looking for sympathy, even support.

Confer with your children. Ask them how they will feel about caring for their father in the last phase, and if they feel he has forfeited the right to be given a home when he needs one. Don't you think it would be well for you to look about for a job and have something to fall back on, instead of promises of reform? Jobs are easier to get now than they will be later on.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Thursday, March 12, 1942

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Gentle, yet strong; generous and charitable, sometimes to the point of being unfair to yourself. You have confidence in people, but if deceived are likely to become superstitious. Should realize that you won't always receive the same treatment, devotion and self-sacrifice from others that you give. That's human nature! Chalk up a new record for quality, accuracy and speed in whatever is your job.

Must Your Daughter Risk Happy Marriage on Half-Truths?

Many a mother, reared in days of false modesty, dreads to "tell her daughter." Little wonder so many young wives unknowingly risk happiness by using over-strong solutions of acids for the douche which can actually burn, scar and even desensitize delicate tissue.

Today such doubts and unhappiness, such risks are needless. Science has given womankind Zonite. So powerful, it kills instantly all germs and bacteria with which it comes in contact. Deodorizes by actually destroying odors. Protects personal cleanliness. Yet Zonite is non-caustic, non-poisonous, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles bought. Get Zonite at your drugist today.

Motors' Hum Sweet Music - Sometimes

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Distributed by International News Service

I saw my first big flight of war planes this week and it makes a thrill go up your neck like a window shade.

The line I remember best of all the London stories was written by a Chicago man when the English ack-acks opened up, "It makes you feel better when your side is making as much noise as the other side."

That psychology of combat is right. But not quite so accurate as the jeep on the range who scored himself perfect because every time he pulled the trigger the gun went off.

That's why the hum of motors in the air is melody to your ears when your side is writing the music.

BRAVES PACK POWER IN CATCHING CORPS

By BILL GRIMES

SANFORD, Fla., March 12—Although the pitchers haven't been putting any too much stuff on the ball, the Braves looked to be a far better hitting club than Casey Stengel has had since he took over the managerial duties of the team . . . All five catchers pack power . . . Ernie Lombard, and Phil Masi are rated one-two the former because he has been a stand out for years and is in better condition than he has been since 1935, the latter because of his experience in the National League . . . Casey Stengel will keep three catchers . . . Clyde Klutts has the call over Al Montgomery and Jack Stals, and, judging from the improvement he's showing, will pass Masi. He does everything very well. He has the best arm of all five catchers and is a power hitter to all three fields. They say he's a smart receiver.

Tommy Holmes will add batting strength to the club, as will Nanny Fernandez . . . Ole Case is looking for a couple of pitchers who can win consistently . . . The squad is rapidly rounding into condition . . . The battermen, who reported here a week in advance of the rest of the squad are all in fine shape . . . The pitchers haven't thrown any fast breaking balls . . . There hasn't been a sore arm reported and only a couple of minor injuries . . . Dick Erickson got a crack on the shin . . . John Hutchings stopped a line drive off Stals' bat with the calf of his leg . . . Klutts was hit on the left ankle by a foul off his own bat . . .

Drs. Paul Butler and Herbert H. Howard will leave for home early next week, as will David Barry and his niece Miss Lillian Dewire of Providence . . . Harvey W. Schaschke, former Boston department store executive, backs in the sun daily in the bleachers at Municipal Field, he's looking and feeling one hundred per cent better than when he came here . . . This town can boast of the most up and coming member of any Chamber of Commerce. He's a Charlie Morrison who owns and operates the only "movie" house in the county . . . When Rob Quinn, Casey Stengel, the players or the press want anything done Northern style (in a hurry), they contact Charlie Morrison and presto, it's done . . .

Heine Heltzel, who was brought up from the Braves' farm at Bridgeport, is living up to all Johnny Pulin's predictions. He's a slight wiry youngster, quick as a cat and light on his feet. Haven't seen an infielder get a ball away quicker than "Heine since Rabbit Maranville was in his prime. If he can hit, the boys will have a tough time keeping him out of the regular line-up. Big John Hutchings is the work horse of the squad. Phil Masi held the title for three years. Another tireless worker is "Wild Bill" Donovan, husky southpaw pitcher from Evansville. Bob Coleman has trouble getting him down and the Coleman treatment is, to put it mildly, very strenuous.

It's getting on it is unsafe for the men folks to walk through the spacious lobby of the Hotel Mayfair, which is the Braves headquarters, with their heads down. The women folks have formed a knitting club and needles are flying around like a swarm of bees. Tanned to a deep brown and looking in the well known "pink," Jack

FROLAN FERNANDEZ
Batting Will Land Berth

Conway, sports director of the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser, dropped in for a short visit. He's vacationing at Palm Beach and judging from his complexion, he has given the night clubs the brush off.

Frank McElya, who was discovered by Peter McGrath of the Record, two years ago, while playing for Owensboro, Ky., where he hit .401, has major league possibilities. He didn't look too hot at San Antonio last spring but he came fast under Bob Coleman at Evansville and he might stay with the club, instead of going to Hartford . . . Chet Ross is coming along nicely. He seems to be acquiring more and more confidence that his leg is all right . . . With the exception of one small spot at the top of his lower leg Ross says that his leg hasn't given him any trouble . . . If Ross is right, the Braves should go places . . . Max West told Casey Stengel that he suspected he'd be tried out at the initial sack, so he went out and bought himself a first baseman's mitt . . . Although he didn't comment on the subject, Max must have done a little practicing at first base before he reported, for he has come up with some really great plays.

Nanny Fernandez packs considerable power in his rather small frame . . . And, already, he's one of the most popular players on the squad . . . One of the reasons Holmes and Klutts have made such fine impressions at the plate is that they hit to all fields whenever they go up . . . Most ball players go for the power swings, hitting for the fences . . . Holmes and Klutts pull inside pitches for distance, but they also hit straight away and line outside pitches to left and right field, respectively . . . Dr. Ed Wright, Joe Conway and Tommy Gilligan are brushing up on their golf.

Chelsea Tackles Peabody

Chelsea High School's 14th appearance in the 17 year history of the annual Tech Basketball Tournament will feature tonight's card of two contests that will wind up the first day of Class A competition at Tufts Cousins gym, Medford.

Catch St. Nicholas' Hot Devils, victors in 11 of 16 starts this season, will meet potent Peabody in the windup contest of the day's four-game program, starting at 8:30 o'clock. Attleboro and Taunton will open the evening card at 7:30 o'clock.

BROOKLINE "DARK HORSE"

Rindge Tech, defending champion, and Lynn Classical, Essex League champion, were to open the Class "A" competition this afternoon. New Bedford, pre-tourney favorite and winner of 16 of 17 starts this season, and Brookline, dark horse of the tourney were to meet in the second afternoon game.

Tomorrow afternoon the Class "B" semi-final round of competition will feature Coach Arrigo LaTana's gallant Rockland five against powerhouse Newburyport. The second "B" semi-final clash will bring together high-scoring Braintree and Framingham fall by the wayside.

ROCKLAND NIPS FRANKLIN

These four teams had their heads above water after yesterday's opening day elimination program, which saw Belmont, Franklin, Chelmsford and Framingham fall by the wayside.

Rockland was forced to come from far back to pull out victory over Franklin, 36-35; Newburyport buried Belmont, 69-34. Braintree, defending champion, belted Chelmsford, 41-22, while Lexington fanned Framingham, 40-32.

FOILED TWICE — James Faust, No. 6, Newburyport, not only missed the basket but also the rebound. Here Victor Woron 'steals' the ball right out of Faust's hands.

3 SPORTS DROPPED

ST. BONAVENTURE, N. Y. March 12 (AP)—St. Bonaventure college has suspended intramural competition in basketball, golf and tennis for this spring as a wartime measure.

Eagles Get Set For Grid

The Eagles' 1941 Sugar Bowl game, which was held at the University of Maryland, was a memorable one. The team, coached by Earl Blaik, won the game 14-0. The game was played on a very cold day, and the players were not used to the weather. However, they played well and won the game.

It lost another likely prospect when Ralph Nash, clever blocking back from Somerville, was appointed to Annapolis last week. Though out of action last season, the result of injuries sustained in practice for the Eagles' 1941 Sugar Bowl game, Nash was expected to rejoin the varsity this spring.

Besides Nash, B. C. must get along without nine seniors and others who were in the service. Seniors who were in the service next week to the draft. Al Miro, tackle, senior, Tommie's tackle; longest senior tackle, Left Zerkel, end; Harry Wagoner, end; Frank Monk, Mazonki, fullback, Adolph Kissel and Tom Wagoner, backs.

Boys in the service include Linden "Lindy" Post, end, from Arlington, Mass.; "Tuck" Toomey, center from Southton; Thomas "Tom" Moran, center from Longmeadow, Mass.; Al Loback, end from Lanesford, Pa.

MISS COLLETT WINS

BELLEVILLE, Mo., March 12 (AP)—Miss Glenn Collett, Varsity of Missouri, Pa., advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Belleville women's golf tournament, defeating Miss S. D. Benson of Tampa, 9 and 7.

Wyatt Stands on

BUCHANAN, Ga., March 12 (AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, who contributed 22 victories to Brooklyn's pennant-winning drive last season, says he is standing on his record in negotiations with President Larry MacPhail for a 1942 salary increase.

Wyatt said yesterday that Mac-

Record

Phail had offered him $13,500, a small increase over his pay last year. The pitcher declined to name the amount he is seeking, but added that he wanted a pretty good raise.

"I may be wrong," he asserted, "but I think I deserve more on my record."

Percy Williams, Ex-Olympic Star, Ferry Pilot

EDMONTON, Alberta, March 12 (AP)—Percy Williams, winner of both the 100 and 200-meter sprints at the 1924 Olympic games, has joined the staff of ferry pilots employed by the Canadian Airways. "I am too old to be a fighter pilot," said the 33-year-old former athlete, "so I did the next best thing."

N.Y.C.C. Five Invited To Metropolitan Tilt

NEW YORK, March 12 (AP)—New York's City College basketball team clinched a bid to the metropolitan invitation tournament by winning one end of a double-header at Madison Square Garden last night, by St. John's last bid by losing the other end.

C. C. N. Y. came from behind after trailing, 29-24 at halftime and built up a lead which it protected for a 43-47 triumph over New York University. The tournament invitation followed.

60 ELIGIBLE FOR FAMED PREAKNESS

BALTIMORE, March 12 (AP)—Sixty three-year-olds, including Alsab, the 1941 juvenile king, and most of the colts that battled him for that honor, are eligible for the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes to be run for the 52d time at Pimlico May 9.

The Maryland Jockey Club, announcing the nominations for its richest race, said 33 interests were represented. Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, whose Whirlaway won the Preakness last year, led the list with five nominations.

W. E. Boering and Col. E. R. Bradley named four horses each, while William Woodward, Mrs. Isabelle Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Louis B. Mayer, Alfred G. Vanderbilt and William Ziegler, Jr., each nominated three.

Alsab was the lone entry from the Albery Stable, which they won nine races and earned $125,495 in 1941. Others named by the Calumet Farm were Wishbone, Pharosheen and Col. Teddy.

Mrs. Whitney's Greentree stable also has a couple of smart colts in David Dyer and Shut Out. This pair accounted for four races last year and earned a total of $82,500.

Best known among the Bradley nominees is Bless Me, remembered for his great race in the Walden at Pimlico, when Alsab was almost to beat him by a head. The Colonel named started a chance in the Preakness since 1941 when his Danleach took.

Bruins to Go All Out To Protect Brimsek

Patched up as well as possible, the Bruins hobbled to the South Station this morning to make train connections for New York where they tangle with the league leading Rangers tonight.

So badly battered are these Bruins that only the fact that there is to be a gent named Frankie Brimsek in the strings can save what looks like a rout.

Yet there's no great concern in the Bruins camp. If they lose tonight's affair and then bow again to second place Toronto, up at the home of the Leafs Saturday, it will make little difference.

WILL PROTECT BRIMSEK

The Bruins have third place sewed up and can go no further. It's true that the figures show they can oust Toronto out of second place by winning three while the Leafs lose their last three, but that's just the speculation which might well be forgotten.

Third place was the goal of the Rossmen after misfortune struck and there they are.

Yet, the Bruins will not go through the motions tonight or Saturday for even at the risk of further injury, they are going to protect Brimsek in every way possible.

Realizing that it was Brimsek almost alone who kept the team together for the past month, the players intend having him clinch the Vesina Trophy in these two coming games.

3 GOALS BEHIND RECORD

Mr. Zee has an eleven goal lead on Turk Broda which looks like money in the bank at this late date except for one thing — the Rangers are going all the way tonight and if they can win 10 to 0 it would tickle them.

The league leaders are only eight goals short of the Bruins all-time scoring record of 179 goals made by the 1929-30 outfit over 44 games. And since the Rangers have only the Bruins and Chicago left, they are going to pile it up if they can.

Bill Cowley wasn't among those who left this morning. Original plans called for him to see a little action against the Rangers and Toronto but he is still so weak that it was deemed wiser to keep him home . . . the Cowboy will work out daily and return to action against the Americans here next Tuesday night.

Our Bruins will really be in bad shape tonight. Dutch Hiller will play even though he had eight stitches taken in his ear Tuesday — he has secured the loan of a football helmet which he will introduce . . . Eddie Wiseman, who was sidelined against the Hawks with a charley horse, is still limping, but will dress tonight . . . Jack McGill, Gordie Bruce and Flash Hollett are all sub par physically but refuse to take any vacations.

Harvard Belts Penn Quintet

Faced by sophomores, Hugh Hyde and "Bunks" Burditt, who scored 16 and 14 points, respectively, the surging Harvard basketball team trampled all over a helpless Penn five last night in the Crimson's final home game of the season, 58-31.

In a preliminary contest, the Crimson freshmen lost an excellent chance to upset undefeated Dean Academy when Don Richards went out on fouls early in the second half, allowing Dean to chalk up its 22nd consecutive win, 62-72.

Bingham Clicks On Pics' Defense

Bog Bingham's surprisingly fine showing at the Olympics defense, has given Coach Hago Harrington an extra forward for Saturday and Sunday games at the Garden with Washington and River Vale respectively.

The former Stoneham High athlete looked good in workouts this week and Harrington has decided to put him on one of the defense posts. With Bingham playing at the point, either Eddie Barry or Cy Beliger will be shifted back to line duty.

In all probability, it will be Belgier who will return to his forward position although Harrington is still undecided.

HOCKEY SEEMS DOOMED FOR 1942-43 SEASON

By Wade World

End of the first war-time hockey season is bringing a lot of rumors about what may happen to the game . . . latest story (from Buffalo) is that Canadian clubs will try to have all the teams shifted to Canada for the duration . . .

Hockey men hereabouts say it ain't so; that they'll either round enough players to carry on with the present setup or there won't be any hockey . . . Still, Bill Tobin of the Black Hawks is quoted as saying his club won't even approach the Canadian government to let boys play on a 24-hour recall basis as they have been doing this year . . . Anyway, it's a cinch that players will be joining up in wholesale lots as soon as this season is over . . . And if the military keeps taking figure skaters at the present rate, don't be surprised if Sonja Henie comes out with an all girl ice revue next fall.

BLUSHING BASKETBALLER

When the postman brought a letter addressed simply to "Jack Korniewicz, Brooklyn, N. Y., Basketball Player," little Johnny Korniewicz of St. Francis College gladly signed his autograph and prepared to mail the card to his youthful Fort Wayne, Ind., admirer . . . but he lost the letter in the locker room and Johnny's fan mail turned up on the college bulletin board . . . since then Johnny has been called from classes a dozen times to answer the phone and every call was a request from "President Roosevelt" or some other celebrity for his autograph.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

When Hobbs Adams called out his Kansas State football candidates this spring after giving the meeting plenty of publicity, only 20 boys showed up instead of the 100 he expected. Jimmy Johnston broadcasts that his boy, Abe Simon, has a swell chance against Joe Louis because Joe will lack confidence if Jack Blackburn isn't in his corner . . . Bobby Robertson, the Southern California footballer has been signed for the Lou Gehrig picture to play the role of one of Lou's Columbia pals . . . Asked to pick an All New England Conference basketball team, Coach Lill Kenyon of Yale named the Rhode Island State starting lineup.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Lynna C. Doyle, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "To look at the Widener Stakes crowd at Hialeah on Saturday, you'd never have guessed that there's anything wrong with this country except a shortage of good guesses . . . The winner ($38,800) didn't make Rhymers' reason."

The "smateur athlete" new lists 48 names on its roll of present and past National A. A. U. or intercollegiate champions in the services. Two names carry stars, meaning gave his life for his country. They are flying Lieutenants Jim Humphrey, former Southern California hurdler, and R. Fuller Patterson, Princeton pole vaulter . . . When Dave Castilloux of Winslow, Me., New England and Canadian lightweight champion, joined the ICAF, the Marine Boxing Commission decreed he could hold his state title for a year without defending it. Then they began to wonder about his eligibility for the New England crown, since he makes his home in Canada . . . Helme Miller, former president of the N. E. A., now is Col. Harvey L. Miller, U. S. Marine Corps, New River, N. C.

Brief Crew Season Adds to Bolles' Toil

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, MAR. 12, 1942

With a shortened season ahead, Tom Bolles, Harvard's successful young crew coach rejoices that his five varsity eights hit the waters of the Charles last Wednesday, the earliest starting date in his six-year regime. The problem of tuning up his crew for the objective Yale race May 23, one month earlier than usual, had loomed large through the winter months.

Even though the Yale race has been telescoped from four to two miles, the Crimson mentor does not think his crew will have a softer task of preparation.

"I don't expect to change my regular training schedule," remarked Tom. "Two or four, it makes no difference to me or the boys. They're just as tired after two as four. It's a freak crew that is good only for a short Henley, and I don't expect to have that sort of crew here."

ENTIRE STERN RETURNS

With five strikes on the Eli boats to date, Tom feels that even though he lost the services of Paul Penneyer, No. 2 oar, to the naval air corps, No. 6 is in the offing.

"This should be a representative Harvard eight, providing the boys can keep their minds off war one hour a day."

Tom is not worried about his stroke oar, Darcy "Bus" Curwen, who closed out the swimming campaign Saturday against Yale. Even though the big Exeter, N. H., boy added the butterfly to his freestyle repertoire this year, Tom feels doubling up in sports wouldn't hurt Curwen or anyone else.

"It's too bad there isn't more of it," he added.

Curwen is the lone holdover of three great strokes. The others, Colt Wagner and Jack Wilson, have graduated. The entire stern four is back, including Curwen, Dava Challinor, Hendricks Whitman of Boston and Ted Lyman of Westwood. Lyman, crew captain, and Dick Harlow's second-ranking quarterback, is on six months call with the Marine Corps. Also returning is Rod Boynton of Scarsdale, N. Y., veteran coxswain.

WISCONSIN COMES HERE

Of last year's jayvees, on whom Tom is counting to help fill the four varsity vacancies, just one has fallen by the wayside. Fred Herter, No. 5 oar, has entered Harvard Medical School.

Returning jayvees include John Erskine, George Prince, Reg Fitz of Brookline, and coxswain Jim Ducey.

Last year's freshman crew was the great "Spike" Chase, in dropping three of four races, losing thrice to the M.I.T. cubs. Two members of that crew have become ineligible — one of whom, Pete Chase, stroke, seemed to have a good future. Chase, younger brother of the great "Spike" Chase, is on probation along with the No. 3 oar, Ben Smith. The others include cox Norm Stearns from Brookline, Bill Sohier, Dick Ober, Schofield Andrews, Clarence Michalis, Nick Biddle, and Ed Wentworth.

Harvard's first race is in the Rowe Memorial, to be held on the Charles, April 23. Then follow the Compton cup regatta at Princeton May 2, the Adams cup here May 16, and then the Yale race.

Wisconsin's great crew, which was just nosed out by Cornell in the Boughkeepsie regatta last year, visits Boston for the first time, when it rows in the Adams regatta, against Harvard and four others. Bolles evidently expects much trouble from the Beavers, inasmuch as he remarked that they had their best freshman crew in history last year.

Lewis Pins Indian Twice

With a large turnout of 3500 fans, Ed Strangler Lewis defeated the favorite Chief Osley Saunooke, Cherokee Indian in the final and main bout of the weekly tournament at the Boston Arena last night.

The clash was a deciding point for the Strangler, who will meet The Angel for the world championship.

The first fall was conceded to Lewis by referee's decision disqualifying the Chief for unnecessary roughness. The second fall also fell to Lewis, by a headlock, in six minutes, 47 seconds.

In the semi-final bout Bill Hansen and "Dropkick" Murphy of Malden came to a 30-minute draw.

VERSATILE Darcy "Bus" Curwen, breaststroke and freestyle ace on Hal Ulen's Harvard swimming team, doffs his swim suit for rowing pants Monday to take over the stroke oar on Tom Bolles' varsity crew. While his crew mates have been on the water for a week, Curwen will be in the briny deep until after the Yale swim meet Saturday night at New Haven. Here he gets the latest dope from Coach Bolles.

Ex-B. U. Star Brings Maine Sextet Here

Little but rugged Johnnie Chambers, captain of the Boston University hockey team last year, leads a powerful Le Montagnard Hockey Club from Lewiston, Me., in Saturday's third annual National A. H. A. championship at the Garden.

The former B. U. star will start at left wing with the Pine Tree state representatives, teaming with Adrien Frechette who had a brief tryout with the Boston Olympics at the start of the season.

Chambers has been teaching in Maine this winter and playing with the Lewiston club whenever he could get away from his duties. LeMontagnard has an impressive record, losing only four games in 19 play. The team faces Swampscott Crescents, one of the four teams that handed the Maine club a defeat during the season, in their first game Saturday.

Junior Olympics play Springfield Braves in Saturday's opener.

English Places 22 In 'Reggies'

Boston English went a long way toward clinching the 34th annual "Reggies" which will be held Saturday by qualifying 22 boys yesterday at the East Armory which saw the start of the two days trials.

Mechanic Arts put nine men into the finals to finish second to English while Boston Latin School advanced eighth.

One record went by the board when Fred Waggett of English ran the Class C 440 in 57 seconds to beat a six-year-old standing record by one-fifth of a second.

GOOD SKIING DESPITE HEAVY RAIN STORMS

By TAP GOODENOUGH

FRANCONIA NOTCH, N. H., March 12—Despair not, skiers! Despite Monday's torrential rain, the snow cover here on the Cannon Mountain trails is still good, although depths are reduced considerably. There are now 44 inches at the summit, with 19 inches at the foot. This snow, of course, is heavy and damp, but falling temperatures will produce a crust which should give way to corn snow. We also hear that other skiing areas are by no means washed out, the sport still being available as near Boston as Iaconia.

Conditions permitting, another Recreational Skiers' Race, similar to the one held three weeks ago, will be contested here today. Enthusiasm ran high in the initial races, with a field of fifty men and women entered in the competition. This gave the skiers of average ability an opportunity to try their skill against others in the same class.

FOR NON-WINNERS

Today's race is open only to the week-end runner, the type who cannot make a business of skiing. No one will be allowed to participate who has never placed first, second, or third in any sanctioned ski meet, or who is classified as an "A" or "B" racer. Those who have passed their second or third Proficiency Tests will be refused entry.

The meet will consist of Downhill and Slalom races for both men and women. Winners in any sanctioned affair will be ineligible, but if they won the Downhill and not the Slalom, they can enter the latter race, according to Paul O'Neill, who is in charge of the event.

In the first Recreational skiers' races, Rachel Ballou of Franconia made a clean sweep with her speedy ascues, winning the medals for first place in the women's class in both the Downhill and the Slalom. Those holding silver Cannons will also be permitted to enter, but anyone who can run the Cannon Mountain Trail under three minutes and thirty seconds is a better-than-average skier.

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Sunday is the date set for the eighth annual running of the Appalachian Mountain Club Invitation Race on the treacherous Wildcat Trail in Pinkham Notch. The race is a ramblante, headed by Henry Perkins, has sent out entry blanks to numerous member clubs in the U. S. E. A. S. A. Inviting them to enter qualified skiers, either individuals or teams of four, for the famous event.

Competitors must be classified "A," "B" or "C" amateur men racers. According to the race committee, the number of starters will be limited to 60, with "A" and "B" racers having the preference.

The race will consist of two runs over the same expert Wildcat Trail. The first will be flagged at 10:30 a. m. and the second at 3:30 p. m. The total time of the two descents will be added for the final summary, and an award will be made for the best three individual performances, as well as for the winning team whose best three times will count in the scoring.

WELCH, CHMIELEWSKI END TRAINING TODAY

Champion Coley Welch and challenger Henry Chmielewski polished off heavy training work at Kelley & Hayes gym today and were pronounced fit and ready to fight tomorrow night at the Boston Garden when they collide for the N. E. middleweight crown.

Welch, the fighting Irishman from Portland, Me., has looked exceptionally good in the gym since arriving here last Monday but remains on the short end of the betting. Chmielewski's two recent wins over Jackie Donovan and Frankie Nelson, have established him a choice to come through in this 12-round title scrap and regain the title he lost to Welch.

Bitter rivals over a period of years, Welch and Chmielewski will be clashing for the fifth time. Four previous decisions were split down the middle with Welch winning once by a technical kayo when he had Chmielewski cut up and bleeding and the referee decided to stop it.

Chmielewski, according to all the experts, is a much better fighter now than at any time in his career. His boxing has been improved by manager Harry Kelley who feels that Chmielewski is worthy of being ranked with the best middleweights in the world now that he's learned how to handle his feet and his mitts. Chmielewski has been concentrating on boxing but has retained his old, devastating punch which is dynamite.

Four previous Welch-Chmielewski combats have been stirring slug-fests and their "rubber" tomorrow night is expected to be another free-swinging affair with both camps announcing intentions of victory by kayo.

Ralph Zanzilli tackles Billy Lancaster, Portland, in a 8-round semi-final while in another Patsy Fanti, Lynn, meets Jerry Zullo, Chelsea. In sixes it will be Dave "Golden Boy" Andrews, Lowell, vs. Billy Nap, Roxbury, and Bobby Alard, Lynn, vs. Frankie Conti, Haverhill. In a four George Sherman, Dorchester, meets popular Jimmy Taylor, Lowell.

Red Sox Happy Again; Players Back Williams

the true facts won't condemn me."

The chief point Williams stressed was that he did not ask for deferment in the draft. He bogged down somewhat trying to explain the complicated machinations of the Minneapolis board, but was positive of the main point: that he consented to a re-hearing of his case—did not request it.

"All I want to do is play this season," he explained. "Then my mother will be provided for and I'll do anything they say. Right now I haven't a cent except $5000 tied up in an annuity, and I'll lose that unless I pay it out this year. All I want to do is provide for my mother, and I don't think there's anything wrong with that. Furthermore, I'll pay about $17,000 income tax, so it isn't as though I won't be doing something to help."

Ted found 62 letters waiting for him here. Seven of them were of a business variety. Of the remaining 55, there were 30 giving him fits for his lack of patriotism. There were 25 advising him to stay in there and slug it out. The division did not leave him too downcast.

TED PREFERRED HARD WAY

"It's good to know there's somebody on my side," he said. Later, when he appeared as a pinch hitter against the Reds, the crowd gave him a warm hand.

If the Red Sox are to have even an outside hope of staying with the Yankees, Ted must be in there. But he can expect no special favors from the club. Both Owner Tom Yawkey and Manager Cronin made it clear to Williams in recent telephone conversations that they thought he might be smart to enter the service. It even was reported that Yawkey stood ready to compensate his star player for the loss of salary. But Ted evidently prefers to tough it out by himself.

Paul Conley In Final Tryouts

From the manner in which youngsters from all over New England are hurrying to sign up for next Monday night's final tryout at Boston Arena, sponsored by the Irish American A. A., the field is beginning to look like the championship meeting itself.

This is the last opportunity to qualify for the New England A. A. U. title events and the boys are going to make the best of the offering.

Eight classes at championship weights, ranging from flyweights to heavyweights, will make up Monday night's card.

Among the entries received to date were Henry Cyzyk, Dorchester, in the 112; James Lyman, Lowell, in the 118; Robert Stoddard, Roxbury, and Angus White, Framingham, in the 126; John Bullitt, a junior at Harvard University, Fred Crowley, Dorchester, George Perkin of Saugus, in the 25 pounds; William Timilty, Roxbury, and James Pettie, Woburn, in the 147; Ernie Donahon, Boston, and Edward Johnson, Boston, in the 160, and Thomas Finnerty, South Boston, and Paul Conley in the light heavyweight division.

12 HOURS' SLEEP KEEPS REDS' ROOKIE FRESH

By the Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla.—Ray Starr, 35-year-old rookie who pitched six innings for the Cincinnati Reds in yesterday's exhibition with the Boston Red Sox, heard Manager Bill McKechnie complain that he might not have a pitcher for Saturday's game.

"I'll be ready," said Ray. "All I need is 12 hours' sleep and I'm always ready."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Two sophomores, first baseman Nick Eiten and catcher Ben Warren, show promise of maintaining slugging reputations with the Phils. Both were club mainstays as rookies and opened the Grapefruit season against the Giants impressively. Eiten, singly, and Warren doubled him home for one of the team's two winning runs.

AVALON, Cal.—Aside from pitching, says Manager Jimmy Wilson, there are two wide open jobs with the Chicago Cubs—left field and shortstop. Currently rookie Harry Lowrey has first call in left field, teaming with Charley Gilbert and Bill Nicholson. Bob Sturgeon is the No. 1 shortstop now, but is being pressed by Len Merullo.

DATTONA BEACH, Fla.—"How that boy can throw!" exclaimed Johnny Rizzo, formerly of the Phils, as he watched a ball come sizzling straight to home plate from the outfield during yesterday's Brooklyn Dodger workout.

The "boy" was Pete Reiser, rifling a throw from center field.

MIAMI, Fla.—First Baseman Johnny Mize of the Giants, his right shoulder taped again, worked out yesterday but didn't accompany the team to Miami Beach for its game with the Phils. So far as the big fellow's throwing arm is concerned, nothing further can be learned until the tape is removed.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Veterans Al Munnar, Jimmy Bagby and Joe Craskeuskas will pitch for Cleveland today as the Indians attempt to avenge Tuesday's 1-0 setback by the Washington Senators. With yesterday's loss to the Cards, the Tribe dropped to a .500 average in the Grapefruit League.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Detroit's intra-squad game have demonstrated to Manager Del Baker what a job it will be to pick a shortstop this season. Veteran Eric McNair hit two homers in the final camp game yesterday, while Rookie Bill Hitchcock, the other candidate for the post, belted a triple and a single and contributed two spectacular fielding plays.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Joe Gordon apparently lost none of his class during his holdout siege. The Yankee second baseman handled seven chances flawlessly in his second game yesterday, bringing his two-day total to 19. Two of his chances were running catches with his back to the plate.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Southpaw Harry Brecheer's first appearance in a spring training game came under circumstances which might have discouraged some rookies. But not Harry, called up by the Cardinals from Columbus. Sent to the mound with two on base and none out in the ninth, he retired three men in a row, two on strikeouts, as the Cards whipped Cleveland yesterday.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Manager Frankie Frisch reported his Pinche pitchers are in "seal shape" with the exception of Hank Gornicki, who is being doctor'd for a torn ligament in his right leg. A foul tip landed squarely on the spot where he received an earlier leg injury.

PASADENA, Cal.—Now that the White Sox exhibition schedule is about to start, the rookies are getting full attention from Manager Jimmy Dykes. Encouraging words by Dykes are scarce during the early conditioning period, but he has a habit of keeping a watchful eye on the rookies, who get a thorough test under fire in the spring barnstorming.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—Catcher Frankie Hayes of the Athletics will try out his injured knee for the first time today. He told Manager Connie Mack that the joint, which was operated on in December, feels fine and that he is sure the treatment will prove successful.

PERHAPS you were under 21 when Prohibition started.

If you were, you have never tasted such whiskey as the Old Overholt now being offered at bars and liquor stores.

The reason is simple.

This is the first time since 1920 that America's favorite bottled in bond rye has been a ripe and mellow six years old.

And if you think that extra age doesn't make a marvelous difference in the finest of whiskeys—the best advice we can give you is try it, and taste for yourself.

Just ask for Old Overholt next time you're at a bar, and you'll thank us for passing the word along to you.
